

Step up fight against drugs in the schools

(First of two articles)

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

Six new developments are said to reflect an intensified campaign against drug abuse among school-age boys and girls in this region:

1. Renewed efforts are being launched by the Metropolitan Enforcement Group of Southwestern Illinois (MEGSI), in cooperation with local authorities.
2. An investigation of school-related drug activity will be started this week by a Madison County grand jury under the leadership of State's Attorney Donald Weber.
3. Increased emphasis is being placed on Operation Snowball, an effort to make students' "peer pressure" work against rather than for drug experimentation.
4. A pilot program is to be carried out at Maryville Grade School in Granite City to show how avoidance of drug abuse can be taught to children at a relatively young age.
5. New crime detection equipment is being put into use this spring by Granite City police, with the cooperation of Granite City Rotarians, to aid in the fight against drug abuse.

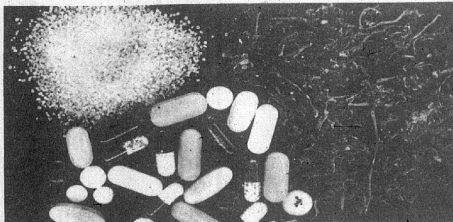

6. Sponsored by the Belleville Area College Student Senate, four days of drug education and information meetings will be held March 30 through April 2 in the BAC theater, 2500 Carlyle Road, Belleville.

A number of persons, including Madison County students, are being asked to testify before the grand jury. State's Attorney Weber last week described it as "an intensive effort to do something about drugs in the schools."

"The investigation may shake some people up as well as leading to possible criminal charges," he said.

Weber said the investigation was not prompted by an incident this month at West Junior High School in Alton. A 14-year-old student was hospitalized briefly after taking pills he obtained from another boy.

A ten-year-old may have been the supplier of the amphetamine look-alike pills. After swallowing two "black beauties," the 14-year-old became ill while playing soccer and required treatment at St. Joseph's Hospital.

MEGSI seeks to aid local, state and federal authorities in curbing illegal drug sales and possession in this region. Activities of the enforcement group were described and discussed at last week's March prayer breakfast, held at Charlie's Restaurant.

Senator Sam Vandalabene was present at the breakfast and promised to do all he can to encourage the state administration to restore 1982-83 funding for anti-drug agencies throughout Illinois.

Jim Nichols, MEGSI executive director, said drug activity has reached serious proportions throughout the seven-county area served by MEGSI. When Drew Karandjeff, Granite City Rotary Club prayer breakfast committee chairman, cited the Operation Snowball program, Nichols agreed that it is a step in the right direction because he feels that drug abuse must be fought within the arena of teenagers' information and attitudes.

The next regional Operation Snowball is set for April 16, 17 and 18 for young people of Madison, St. Clair, Monroe, Washington, Clinton, Bond and Randolph counties. Location will be the Makanda, Ill., youth camp.

Governor James R. Thompson, in proclaiming last Dec. 5 as Operation

Snowball Day in Illinois, said its "community of caring" approach is designed to "provide alcohol and drug abuse prevention information to high school-aged teens, aiding them in distinguishing attitudes and facts regarding abuse and alcoholism."

"These far-sighted efforts are based on devotion to the needs of young people and an awareness of teenagers' desperate need for accurate information and support. Through this program, countless Illinoisans can be positively influenced to make responsible decisions and lead productive adult lives," the governor commented.

A spokesman for Collinsville AID (Aid through Information on Drugs), which is coordinating the April 16-18 meeting, said, "High school students are invited to attend Operation Snowball in order to learn about themselves, learn how to help other people their own age in their own community, and to meet new people."

TELEVISION SHOW. A new half-hour entertainment television show is being filmed each Thursday night at Danny Bob's nightclub in Mitchell. Entitled "Pappy's Place," the program stars Wade "Pappy" Ray, well-known fiddler and a star in many older western movies. His guest star last Thursday night was Rex Allen Jr., recording star and actor. They are shown during rehearsal Thursday.

On the stage with Wade and Allen are popular radio disc jockey, Wilkie, and the puppet he uses in his ventriloquist act. On the stage at the right is the Jimmy Queen Band, which performs for the show. Videotaping of 13 weekly shows is planned and they are to be sold to cable television networks and at least one commercial network for airing in the near future.

TV show being filmed locally

It's not Burbank, Calif., or New York City, but "Live from Granite City, Illinois, it's Pappy's Place," a new half-hour television program with Wade "Pappy" Ray.

Videotaping of a new country and western variety show began Thursday night at Danny Bob's in Mitchell and plans are to continue public taping sessions each Thursday night for 13 weeks. Different guest stars are planned for each week's program. Last week, the guest stars were Rex Allen Jr., a recording and television star; Wilkie, KSD radio disc jockey and his puppet, the Jimmy Queen Band and other radio personalities from the KSD Travelin' Road Show.

Already booked for future programs are Nick Nixon, Michael Murphy and Rex Allen Sr. Commitments are being sought from Roy Clark, Chet Atkins, Ernest Tubb and Roy Rogers and Dale Evans. The fun of the program, for local residents, is that the rehearsals and the tapings are open to the public. Waitresses at Danny Bob's will be playing bit parts and the entire audience becomes a part of the production.

The mood is informal. "Don't be surprised if a technician asks you to leave your table for a few minutes and he then moves your table away. Minutes later, a guest star may be standing where your table was taping a song or an act. Then, your table will be returned," Kay Mullens, manager of the new nightclub, warned.

The star, Wade "Pappy" Ray may not be a household word in your household, but his face is definitely familiar to anyone over 30 or any country-western fan. Ray has spent a great deal of time on camera, as well as in front of live audiences.

Core group to 'sell' this area

By GEORGE ANN MCGEE
of the Press-Record

A "Spirit" has brought some surprisingly good news to the Quad-Cities area — but the bad news is that not many know about the good news.

Labor-management expert Michael O'Reilly has written a regional Illinois area labor-management report, card showing that 96 percent of the employees here are not affected by strikes, promoting this area to a "class of distinction."

The bad news is that not many industrial prospects out there are likely to be aware of O'Reilly's statistics or believe them.

Now listening hard to such facts is a wide-ranging assortment of highly motivated Quad-Cities "movers and shakers," taking some calculated lessons on polishing up the area's wounded economic image. Not all are accustomed to sitting down together in the same room.

For three weeks, they have been participating in a four-part economic development training program here that has been gathering steam under the very conscious efforts of Alan Richardson, executive vice-president of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce.

"It's not going to happen overnight," said Richardson. "But we feel we can do it."

He is blending a fine mix of city government officials and Chamber of Commerce members with a liberal pinch of support groups and planners. Forty-three interested residents and "concerned guests" sat side by side Thursday, including two bank presidents, a union leader, a host of aldermen, an economics professor, Tri-City Regional Port and Foreign Trade Zone administrators, utility representatives and a librarian, among others.

O'Reilly, executive director of the Spirit of St. Louis Labor-Management Committee, already has helped form a Nestle Company in-plant labor-management committee in Granite City. He has formed 21 similar committees in the St. Louis area and says he is amazed at the previously untapped ideas that have emerged.

Opening untapped sources — inside and outside of the Quad-City area — is the root of Richardson's budding economic development program.

Richardson, who came here last September from the St. Louis Regional Commerce and Growth Association (RCGA), said he arrived with the premise that his job is to push economic development.

The first "problem area" he encountered was the lack of unified effort here, he said. The four-part training plan he is orchestrating now is a modified version of an Illinois Power Company program. Jim Moonshower from Illinois Power in Decatur is Richardson's partner in the current training program. Moonshower introduced two economic development "allies" to the audience Thursday, and said he will invite other such allies in the future.

The introduction of available manpower resources appears a key ingredient of the industry and government "getting acquainted and becoming mutually beneficial" program.

The two guest allies that night were Kenneth Evers, the first full-time Illinois Bell community relations developer, who also happens to be the mayor of Edwardsville, and Terry Donohue of the Southwest Illinois Metropolitan Area and Regional Planning Commission (SIMARPC).

The main topics of the two-hour session, however, were the transportation networks serving the immediate region and the role existing labor and management play in attracting new industrial plants.

Illinois Department of Transportation consultant Charles DeWeese, working with the St. Louis Metro-Area Rail Gateway Enterprise (MARGE), explained how his program is attempting to shorten rail switching delays by relocating inefficient rail lines and switch yards and modernizing the rail system through the St. Louis corridor.

If successful, the new system could

Madison eyes vocational uses for old junior high

By MICK STRANGE
of the Press-Record

Working drawings and specifications for proposed renovation of the old Madison Junior High School on Third Street into a vocational education building will be submitted to the Madison School Board about April 1.

A letter about the project to John Palchek, superintendent of schools, from Henry R. Gabriel, the district's architect, was read at Thursday night's board meeting.

It said in part, "The estimate for this work indicates that the cost would be near $100,000, including fees and contingencies. This does not include any major revisions in plumbing, heating, air conditioning and electrical work."

Board Member Frank Eaves asked, "Does this mean there will be added expenses for plumbing and heating?" Palchek said this will not be known until contractors look at the building and submit bids.

Board President Sam Dymas instructed the administration to send a copy of the letter from Gabriel to Jim Risovsky, chairman of the Citizens' Vocational Advisory Council, which will meet on Monday.

The advisory panel has suggested that, during the period before the plans are ready, various options be thought of in case remodeling work would prove to be prohibitively costly.

Some of the options mentioned by the advisory group were having a "strong-barn" type of building put up next to the high school, or constructing vocational facilities on the present tennis court site

TIME and the R SYMBOL

In the days before type and the craft of printing, all recorded words were transcribed by hand. It was a laborious task. To speed it, short cuts or symbols were developed to cut down repetitious words. Thus the symbol for Pharmacy was born. The R with a slash across the tail is from the Latin word Recipe meaning "to receive" as in instructions from a Physician to a Pharmacist.

Deputies should be pushed, not pulled in new squad cars

The Madison County board Wednesday defeated a motion to purchase 11 new Chevrolet Citations for the sheriff's department, saying that a cheaper alternative could and should be chosen. The board then voted to seek new bids.

The Central Services committee had recommended that the board accept the bid of Butler Chevrolet of Edwardsville. The firm bid $7,542 per car, for a total of $82,972.

It was stated that after bids had been received, Klausmeier Ford of Alhambra told the board that rebates were available.

Board Member Jack Frandsen of Alhambra, Homer Henke of Moro and James Heil of Alton were among those arguing against purchase of the Citations.

Henke said, "I can't see why a Ford Fairmont (from Klausmeier) wasn't accepted." He said he was told that maintenance on a front-wheel drive car is more expensive. (The Citation is front-wheel; the Fairmont is rear-wheel drive.)

"I presently don't believe the sheriff's department needs a front-wheel drive car," Henke said.

"A lot of taxpayers can't afford front-wheel drive vehicles," Frandsen said. It was up to the board to remember that "the buck stops here," he said.

Heil said the board has a duty not to spend money foolishly.

Harold "Cotton" Roberts of Alton, chairman of the Central Services committee, said it is usually the prerogative of each department to make the choice of the vehicle it wants. "Their choice, of course, in this instance was the Citation," he said.

He noted the rebate wasn't mentioned in the original bid.

Herschel Beane of Godfrey said that a front-wheel drive vehicle was requested in the specifications.

Fred Dalton of Collinsville said objections should have been raised when specifications were being considered. "I just hate to see bids come in and then be changed because the price wasn't right," Dalton said. The board approved a suggestion by Heil that both front and rear-wheel drive cars be included in the new specifications.

Hagnauer asks board to help prevent deficits

By ED GURNEY

Chairman Nelson Hagnauer of Granite City has asked Madison County board committees to begin studying ways to avert a huge budget deficit in the next fiscal year.

In a memorandum released last week, Hagnauer asked that each committee meet with department administrators in the next six weeks to recommend savings of 18 percent or greater, and to list the functions of each department by priority.

Auditor Pete Fields has projected that there will be $1.5 million less available in the general fund next year than is being spent in the current fiscal year.

County officials say that revenues are not keeping up with expenses. Use of reserves has enabled the county to operate this year, although Fields said that some mid-year budget adjustments may be needed.

Hagnauer said the task of coming up with a financial plan for next year shouldn't fall just on the shoulders of the finance committee. There would not be time to prepare, he added, if the task was assumed by the finance committee when it normally begins working on the budget in August. (The new fiscal year begins Dec. 1.)

"As chairman, I am aware that it will be very difficult to develop a financial program in light of the serious conditions that are affecting the county in the near future," Hagnauer wrote. "There will probably be many disbursements and discussions in developing this long-range plan."

"However, it is my opinion that if we do not act now to plan for the budget, the problems will be unresolvable by this summer and the kinds of headaches that we can anticipate will be much worse," Hagnauer said.

Hagnauer asked that all recommendations be received by April 30. The county board executive committee will meet between then and July to come up with a proposed plan. Meanwhile, Fields is supposed to provide a six-month evaluation of the 1982 budget by June, along with a projection of 1983 revenues.

Among the topics to be considered, Hagnauer said, is whether federal revenue sharing money will be used in 1983 to pay for operational expenses or one-time capital expenditures.

The board also is asked to consider ways to find additional revenue, consolidate jobs within or between departments, and eliminate services.

Fields, in a presentation to the board, said income from sales tax revenue may not reach the $1.7 million projected this year. Sales tax income is down 4.5 percent from the same period last year, he said, while a 10 percent increase had been projected.

"It's going to take a lot of effort on everyone's part to correct this (budget problem)," Fred Dalton of Collinsville, a member of the finance committee, said.

He said he thinks revenue sharing should be used only for capital improvements.

Referendum in November on tax hike for 2 care homes

Madison County voters will be asked in November to decide whether to establish separate new taxes for the county shelter care home and county nursing home.

The county board has voted to place those proposals on the ballot. The tax for each purpose would not be allowed to exceed 2.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

In a related matter, the board tabled for 30 days a proposal to let voters decide on a tax for police protection by the sheriff's department.

The new taxes would help the county's beleaguered general fund. The county board is considering ways to avert a huge budget deficit next year.

Bill Little of Alton, a member of the county board's health institutions committee, said that a person with a $30,000 home would pay an additional $2.50 per year for the nursing home and $2.50 for the shelter care home.

Consideration of the police protection tax referendum was delayed on the recommendation of James Heil of Alton. He said the board needs more legal advice on what the money could be used for.

Little said the referendum was requested during negotiations by Operating Engineers Local 520-C, the union that represents sheriff's deputies.

Negotiations Committee Chairman Herbert "Junior" Milton said in a memo to the board chairman that a tax of up to 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation could be levied the first year. The tax could go up to .15 cents in succeeding years, Milton said.

A 10-cent tax would generate an estimated $1.35 million, he said.

The county board has been asked to study ways of making significant cuts in the budget for the next fiscal year. There is expected to be $1.5 million less available in the county's general fund next year than is being spent this year.

Louis Whitsell of Granite City said he doesn't think a referendum for the nursing home will pass. Only 150 people benefit by the home, he said.

Although it may not be popular politically, the board should consider the nursing home when it discusses budget cuts, Whitsell said.

Burglar ransacks, takes jewelry

Venice issues dismissal notices; signs agreement

By VALERIE EVENEDEN
of the Press-Record

Twenty tenured faculty members with up to 15 years seniority and three Special Education teachers, all employed by Venice School District 3, were issued dismissal notices last week.

Authorization for the dismissals was granted by the Venice Board of Education, following a public hearing. By law, the school districts are required to notify teachers of their dismissal within 60 days of the end of the school year.

Board members also were advised of the verbal acceptance of a two-year working agreement by custodians and cooks who are members of Building Services Union, Local 98.

Only the district's secretarial workers still are unable to reach accord on a new contract, Superintendent Robert N. Vickers said.

Last year, 40 Venice teachers received honorable dismissal notices, but most were subsequently rehired. Supt. Vickers said current dismissal letters have been sent to most of Venice-Lincoln Technical Center's original staff, which now has up to 13 years seniority. A few faculty members at the adult center have more than 15 years seniority in the district and were not issued notices this year.

The administrator noted that no longer a factor in the issuance of notices are Title VI personnel, who were included in last year's honorable dismissal list. Title VI funds already have been cut to the district.

The also said that further staff cuts are not contemplated, providing Venice-Lincoln Center is refunded, beyond the probability of one non-tenured Special Education teacher.

Irene Orr, who attended the hearing representing Venice Local 985, American Federation of Teachers, expressed appreciation to Supt. Vickers, stating, "We do appreciate the fact that Mr. Vickers has taken time to look at the (seniority) list and we do understand the necessity for the letters being sent."

"I want to thank him personally for his efforts," Mrs. Orr added.

The superintendent was criticized by faculty members last year when he recommended that notices be sent to 40 teachers, leaving only 17 people to operate the schools, including three administrators.

Board President Jack Tolliver commented, "Most years we have been able to work it out. This year, however, we have what will come up from state or nationally in funds. We do understand the teachers' position in our need to issue the letters."

During the regular meeting, when the honorable dismissals issue was introduced for formal adoption, Tolliver promised, "At the earliest time we receive information about finances, we will rescind the letters."

By unanimous vote, board members agreed to adopt the working agreement with Local 98 for district cooks and custodians. The two-year contract runs through June 30, 1983 and is retroactive to last June 30.

By mutual consent, negotiations toward a new contract only started in January, after an agreement was reached between Venice School District 3 and Teachers Local 965. The new agreement with custodial employees is based for the first time on five-year step increases.

The 1981-82 wage schedule shows hourly pay of $5.15 for custodians with less than one year's employment on a graduated scale up to $6.70 per hour for those with over 20 years' service. The new agreement shows percentage increases of 8.8 percent to 14 percent over the previous contract.

In 1982-83, the custodians' pay schedule shows hourly rates from $6.65 at the lowest end of the seniority scale to $7.15 at the top level.

Cooks will receive a seven percent increase in the 1981-82 pay rate and a five percent increase in the 1982-83 schedule.

Head cooks will earn $5.13 per hour in 1981-82 and $5.40 per hour under the 1982-83 contract. Regular cooks will receive $5 an hour in the current year and $5.24 next year.

A change in contract language also was agreed upon by the board and the Local 98 members. One change involves specific language in the use of five funeral days per year.

Another change is prior notification of the intention to use four emergency days, which may not be used three days prior to a holiday or three days afterward in the new contract.

A new policy regulating severance pay for cooks and custodians, who are hired after July 1, 1982, will allow payment of 60 percent of the accumulated severance pay after 15 years employment in the district, based on the pay rate of substitute custodians or cooks, instead of the hourly rate of regular employees.

The board approved salary increases for non-union employees, which include teacher aides and bus drivers.

Teacher aides will receive $3.75 this year and $4 in 1982-83, while aides with 30 college semester hours will get $3.90 and $4.15 in the respective two-year periods.

Library aides will earn $3.95 this year and $4.25 in 1982-83; bus drivers, $4.55 and $4.85 and bus driver-security guards, $5.35 and $5.55 in 1982-83.

Four sick days will be allowed in the current school year and five days in 1982-83. The district also will contribute one-fourth of the cost of major medical insurance, amounting to $13.50 per month, for those drivers and aides not presently covered.

TV character visits school

"Slim Goodbody," a television character who makes frequent appearances on the nationally televised "Captain Kangaroo" children's show, visited Russell E. Johnson Grade School Thursday.

The performer appeared at a school assembly and presented a program which was both entertaining and educational, according to a spokesman for the Johnson PTA, project sponsor.

The pupils especially enjoyed an audience-participation segment, featuring various action songs, the spokesman said. Also stressed by the visiting performer were the benefits of good eating habits and why exercise is necessary to keep hearts and lungs functioning properly.

FINAL REHEARSAL. HELD FOR BOND ON BURGLARY CHARGE

James R. Williams, 17, of No. 11 Kaseberg Lane, Pontoon Beach, is being held in the Madison County jail on a burglary charge, with bond set at $7,500.

It was alleged that a parked car was being burglarized in the parking lot of Soccer for Fun, on Highway 111, at 11:25 p.m. Wednesday; a customer came out of the establishment and saw a youth in his car.

VA Agent Orange forms at office

In a continuing effort to help resolve remaining Agent Orange questions the Veterans Administration announced the formation of a new office to deal exclusively with Agent Orange matters.

Charles T. Hagel, VA Deputy Administrator who heads the Agent Orange Policy Coordinating Committee, said creation of the Agent Orange Research and Education Office (AOREO) should ensure clear policy guidance and the solid management of the many Agent Orange related activities in which the VA is involved.

The Veterans Administration should lead the way in resolving the Agent Orange question through our medical and scientific research projects and I believe the formation of this new office is a step in the right direction," Hagel said.

"It is my intention that this new office become the single focal point for all VA Agent Orange matters and it provide guidance and oversight for all of these activities," Hagel continued. The deputy administrator pointed out that VA's Department of Medicine and Surgery will continue to play a lead role in the VA's Agent Orange program and will work closely with the new office.

The office will be headed by Maurice Levis, Ph.D. candidate in health psychology and health systems research at the University of California Medical Center in San Francisco. He will report directly to Hagel.

Potluck for Happy Group

Thirty-eight members of the Happy Group seniors met Thursday at the Granite City Township Center for their March potluck dinner.

Elizabeth McCoy, vice president, was in charge of the business meeting. She announced Juanita Crawley, club president, was hospitalized in St. Louis for tests.

Dinner was served at noon and the remainder of the time was spent socially.

Games were played, including pinochle. Among the winners were Sophia Harrison, Pauline Cox, Tom Crawley, Marge Zinn, Evelyn Smith and Catherine Hinkley.

The infant weighed six pounds, 3 1/4 ounces and has been named Crystal Lynn.

She has a brother, Jason Michael, who will celebrate his second birthday Tuesday.

Mrs. Young is the former Linda Walsh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Walsh of Granite City. The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Young Sr. of Mitchell.

Meet today on future of air control board

By GEORGEANN MCGEE
of the Press-Record

Mayor Paul Schuler has recommended that Granite City's new air pollution contract be approved, bypassing the crippled Granite City Air Pollution Board.

Alderman Casmer Skubish, chairman of the air pollution control committee, has called for a meeting this afternoon on the contract and to determine what the future holds for the board.

The position of an Air Pollution Board in Granite City has always been delicate, according to Skubish, saying it is "kind of a vague situation — how people feel about the services of the board."

"Some people feel we shouldn't disturb industry too much... others are sensitive to health," said Skubish, who is a past employee of the department.

The alderman said the board can hold quite a bit of power by determining local IEPA policies to some extent.

On the council floor last

City Engineer Monroe Brewer, currently the head of the Air Pollution Division, wrote a letter to Skubish recommending that the council pass the new contract in preparation for the mayor's signature.

Instead, Skubish made a motion Tuesday to refer the contract back to his committee until he receives further input from the mayor, who was not present at the meeting.

"I think we should get the contract finalized," Schuler said Wednesday after the meeting.

The mayor said the contract has been "under study by the aldermen at least a month," Skubish disagrees, saying the matter had been referred back to the mayor.

"I personally feel the department is one of the most important. We got a big problem problem in this city," the mayor said.

Schuler said he wanted to make clear that, in an economic crunch, some departments have to be cut. "That doesn't mean the department would not be returned to full strength," According to Brewer, "I don't think it (the contract) needs the approve of the air pollution board."

Brewer said he is worried that a delay in signing the contract — formed after an eight-month waiting game between the city and the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA) — might jeopardize the agreement.

Under the tentative contract, the city would relinquish air monitoring surveillance to the state, which would put the city in charge of industrial and commercial plant inspections and residential complaints.

Last year, the council rejected forming a board similar to the air pollution board to act in the same way for the city's new industrial wastewater Pretreatment Program.

According to Skubish, what remains of the Air Pollution Board could be eliminated through council action.

With or without board approval, the new contract will become effective the day it is signed and will extend until June 30, when another contract agreement will have to be dependent on federal budget decisions yet to be made.

The city can receive no more than $10,936 under the new state contract, even with its present $50,000 air pollution budget, but the city is still believed eligible for direct federal funding for the earlier portion of the budget year. Last week, the city received a $19,000 federal payment.

Skubish said the state money is dependent upon "those stipulations and agreements" in the new contract, which have not been studied by the air board.

"If Monroe (Brewer) wants to agree to the terms, it's going to take a lot of his time. I don't see how he can do it," Skubish said.

Alderman Carl Kittel, a member of the air pollution control committee, said he thought the council had a right to approve the contract that night, but seconded his chairman's motion.

State regulatory changes proposed

Governor James R. Thompson presented recommendations for regulatory reform Thursday to provide greater consumer protection in six areas.

He made the recommendations under the Regulatory Agency Sunset Act. The specific proposals were presented to the Select Joint Committee on Regulatory Agency Reform, which will hold public hearings on each of the six acts scheduled to terminate Oct. 1, 1983.

"The purpose of the sunset process is to ensure that no profession, occupation, business, industry or trade is subject to state regulation unless legitimate danger to the public exists," Thompson said in his message to members of the General Assembly.

"To that end, the acts have been thoroughly reviewed in order to ascertain the need for and public benefits derived from a state regulation."

The governor recommended that the Detectives Act be terminated and replaced with an act that would provide greater protection of the public by requiring not only continuing private security forces but also armed in-house security forces.

The Funeral Directors and Embalmers Act would be revised, Thompson said, to increase consumer protection by requiring price and credit disclosures and prior authorization to remove or embalm a body.

The special state examination should be replaced by endorsement of the national examination, he said.

The Public Accounting Act should be continued and reformed to focus state regulation on the functions of auditing and attesting to the accuracy of financial statements, the governor said. He wants to explore transferring the University of Illinois' role in the examination of certified public accountants to the department of Registration and Education, which administers the Public Accounting Act.

The Certified Shorthand Reporters Act would be revised to "improve program performance and accountability, including public members on the advisory board, replacing vague application requirements such as honesty, integrity and worthiness with more specific provisions, and increasing enforcement measures for discipline."

The Social Workers' Registration Act "should focus on clinical social workers and exempt government and not-for-profit employees. However, anyone who has graduated with a degree in social work would be able to use the title of social worker," Thompson said.

The Veterinary Medicine and Surgery Practice Act should be continued and reformed. The unnecessary licensure requirements including minimum age, character, high school education, and pre-veterinary collegiate training — should be for the public benefit program for certification of animal health technicians should be eliminated."

These acts are administered by the Department of Registration and Education. All are scheduled to end on Oct. 1, 1983, unless they are expressly recreated by legislation.

Teachers to hear officials

The impact of Reaganomics and Governor James R. Thompson's proposal to reduce funds for education will be high on the agenda at the 44th annual convention of the Illinois Federation of Teachers, Friday through Sunday at the Sheraton St. Louis, Convention Plaza.

Delegates representing IFT's 45,000 members in 288 local unions and councils will assemble to listen to invited guest speakers and reports from union leaders and to make decisions on policy for the coming year.

Gov. Thompson, governor nominee Adlai Stevenson and U.S. Senator Alan Dixon will head a list of speakers which will include many of the state's top labor, political, and civic leaders. Both Thompson and Stevenson are expected to present reason why teachers and other education workers should support them in the race for governor.

IFT President, Robert Healey, in his annual "state of the union" message, is expected to dwell at length on the ways in which the Reagan administration's efforts to scuttle public education over the past year have impacted on the operation of schools throughout the state."

A letter writing campaign aimed at combating federal cuts in the education budget is currently being concluded by IFT members. Similar efforts directed at the Thompson budget cut will coincide with legislative consideration of school funding bills.

The convention will begin Friday at 8 p.m. and conclude Sunday at noon.

The Saturday schedule includes a 10:30 a.m. address by the governor, a 2 p.m. talk by Stevenson and a 2:30 p.m. address by Sen. Dixon.

Granite Cityan recipient of Army suggestion award

Loren Hicks of Granite City recently received a Suggestion Award from the Defense Mapping Agency Aerospace Center in St. Louis.

The award is given to Aerospace Center employees whose ideas for improved work methods, or more efficient job practices results in significant cost savings for the government.

The Aerospace Center, provides worldwide aeronautical mapping, charting and geodetic support for the Department of Defense. Aerospace Center products support manned aircraft, aircraft simulators, missile guidance systems and the NASA manned space missions.

Frohhardt PTA carnival Friday

A "Happy Days" spring carnival will take place Friday, March 26, at Frohardt School, sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association.

All parents, teachers, students and school alumni are invited to attend the event, scheduled from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Friday.

A PTA spokesman said 13 different games will be offered, most costing 10 cents a game, plus an Arcade Room featuring two games, including "Pac-Man," costing 25 cents.

Several prizes will be awarded, such as a large stuffed bear and a side of beef, the spokesman said. Cub Pack 22 also will sponsor a bake sale at the carnival. PTA board members are planning to dress in the clothing style of the 1950's, and all "Fronzie" characters are being asked to park their "bikes" at the bicycle rack outside school.

APPEAL FOR FUNDS FOR BURNED CHILDREN

An appeal for funds to help defray the medical costs of two young children who were badly burned in a home accident is being made by the mother, who says the expenses will far exceed her ability to pay. A 12-year-old girl was so badly burned that she will require attention through the end of the school year and another child suffered lesser burns, but also will require lengthy and expensive treatment.

Those willing to assist the family may leave donations at the main desk at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, noting that the donations are to aid the burned children on the fourth floor, the mother said.

Slight hike likely in library budget

The Granite City Public Library has submitted to the city comptroller a tentative working figure of $552,729 for its 1982-83 budget year.

The working figure includes provisions for employee increases at a time other city worker raises are in question.

Traditionally, the library budgets a lower percentage of its total budget for salaries than the city. Although the library sets its own budget and operates from its own tax levy, the library board is appointed by the mayor and its budget is included as part of the city's yearly budget.

Joan Yetter, board president, said a tentative budget could not be drawn until certain upcoming expenditures are more accurately determined. The library budget this year is $516,000. The new budget is expected to be slightly higher. The library budget year extends from May to April. The most significant unknown expense is the employee's health insurance program, said Mrs. Yetter. Librarian Robert Stack, director, said the insurance plan had originally been budgeted for $29,218 this year, but is expected to cost $47,916 at fiscal year's end.

The library is currently advertising for bids for the health insurance program. The bids will be opened April 2.

The board approved the tentative working figure at its March 9 meeting.

At that meeting, the board approved a motion intended to produce "the best possible interest on our certificates of deposit." The library will try to combine available funds to total $100,000 for reinvestment purposes to obtain higher interest rates.

Mrs. Yetter suggested that Mayor Paul Schuler be invited to a future board meeting to discuss the development of a new branch library.

The board also approved a plan to replace and expand library shelving. Approved was $12,268 for the shelving purchase and installation.

The board decided to increase the fee from 5-cents to 10-cents per sheet for use of the main library photocopyer. The new price begins April 1.

FEMINIST TO GIVE TALK AT UNIVERSITY

Mary Daly, feminist, philosopher and theologian, will lecture at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville on Friday, April 2.

Sponsored by the campus chapter of Women for Women and the University Center Board, the lecture will be presented in the University Center conference area at 8 p.m. Tickets are $1 for SIUE students and $3 for others.

Winter Carnival — fun evening for all

Pre-schoolers, dance and baton class members and gymnasts, students in Granite City Park District programs, performing before a 1,000-plus crowd in Memorial Gymnasium on the Granite City High School South campus last week made for a fun evening for all. Above — young tap dancers in red, white and blue costumes perform to the song "Grand Ol' Flag." At right — Gymnast Pam Rowden does a specialty performance on the balance beam leading off the gymnastic portion of the carnival sponsored by the park district.

Title I meeting and parent program

The two classrooms which have the best parent representation will be awarded prizes at the Madison Community Unit District 12 Title I parent advisory meeting and program.

The meeting will be held in the Madison High School auditorium at 6:30 p.m. Monday, March 29, at Louis Baer School. The school will present the program. Prizes to be awarded will be a book to each student in the winning rooms and each winning room will receive a set of books for the room library.

One room will be selected from the primary grades and one from the intermediate grades.

Parents are being asked to cooperate in filling out the Chapter I needs assessment forms to help determine what future programs will be, according to Wade E. James, assistant superintendent of schools.

Charges result from accident

Timothy M. Johnson, 19, of 2110 Nevada Ave., was charged with failing to reduce speed to avoid an accident, reckless driving and disobeying a stop sign last week, following an accident at 22nd and Adams streets.

In the mishap, Johnson's vehicle, traveling west on 22nd street, allegedly struck an auto northbound on Adams, operated by Frederick E. Warnhoff, 907 Twenty-Fourth St.

Mark S. Justice, 21, of 2426 Logan Ave., a passenger in Johnson's auto, was injured and admitted to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where he underwent exploratory surgery.

Stephanie Stuard, 17, of 2430 Madison Ave., another passenger and Johnson also sustained injuries. He was released on posting his driver's license.

S & L's pay record interest amount

The state's 342 savings and loan associations paid a record $4 billion in interest and dividends to savers during 1981, according to figures just released by the Illinois Savings and Loan League.

The League is the statewide trade association representing home finance specialists.

The figure is a 29 percent increase over the $3.1 billion paid during 1980, according to Warren E. Bachert, League president and president of Home Savings and Loan of Aurora.

"This increase reflects record interest rates paid to savers who invested heavily in the rate-sensitive certificates—money market and 2½-year small savings certificates," Bachert said. In the Metro-East area, savings and loan associations report $1.35 billion in savings and $1.5 billion in assets at year-end 1981.

Savings increased 2.4 percent on Illinois savings and loan associations during 1981, reaching a total of $39.6 billion at year-end. Total assets held by these associations were $47.5 billion as of December 31, 1981.

The savings and loan industry's net worth to savers ratio in Illinois at year-end was 4.04 percent or $1,600,822,000.

"The savings and loan business is becoming one of the most innovative in the financial services arena. New products introduced during 1981 were interest-earning NOW checking accounts, tax-saving 'All-Savers' certificates and expanded individual retirement accounts," Bachert said.

How to ride the bus is topic of free book

The Bi-State Development Agency is offering free "How to Ride the Bus" booklets to the public. The booklet-sized brochures contain information that is especially helpful to new bus riders, but could also save some time and money for veterans of public transportation.

Information contained in the booklet includes a chart of fares, a detailed description of how to read a timetable, and some little known facts that can make bus riding easier.

The booklet even tells riders how to register a complaint or complaint when they receive excellent service.

Persons wishing a free copy of the new booklet may write The Bi-State Development Agency, Transit Information, 707 North First Street, St. Louis, Missouri 63102, or call Transit Information at 1-314-231-2345.

Committee feels county jail roof should be repaired, not replaced

By JIM SCHLUETER

The Madison County Board's Buildings Committee has instructed architect Henry Gabriel of Granite City to make up specifications to repair, but not replace, the roof of the new county jail.

The new jail's roof was damaged in a severe storm a year ago, and the county board gave the committee permission last month to advertise for bids to repair or replace the roof.

The county and the insurer of the jail are currently disputing the county's claim for the roof damage. The company, Royal Insurance, will pay $2,000 for the damage, but roofing contractors have said that the roof's original warranty cannot be guaranteed for only $12,000 worth of repairs. Committee member James Heil of Godfrey said the county should be ready to go to court to get the insurance company to pay for repairs necessary to keep the warranty.

"We want estimates to repair the roof to return it to before-storm condition," Heil said. "I think we're entitled to that right."

"I don't think the whole roof has to be taken off, but either way, I think we got a lawsuit on our hands."

In other matters, the committee heard a report from architect William E. Henderson on fire safety improvements in the courthouse which were ordered by the state fire marshal last year.

Henderson said that the improvements will cost $12,000, but he proposed an alternative to one requirement of glass fire safety doors at each entrance. The Buildings Committee was concerned that safety doors would detract from the character of the building.

Henderson's alternative is to use pressurized air to keep the stairways free of smoke and heat instead of the glass doors. The proposal, which would cost about $27,000, has been sent to the fire marshal for approval.

The committee also was told by Director of Administration Mary Kane that officials of the Illinois Department of Corrections visited the new jail and said the corrections department may consider filing suit if the county continues to double-bunk prisoners.

Heil said he wouldn't mind if the dispute did go to court.

"We can't add on another floor every week," Heil said. "We think we're right and the judge tell us who's right, then the public will know we did our best."

Query brings medals to Forys

Thirty-five years after he had been nominated for them, Ralph Forys, packaging specialist in the contract management directorate at the Defense Contract Administration Services Region (DCASR), St. Louis, received the Bronze Star, the Europe-Africa-Middle Eastern Campaign Ribbon with 3 Bronze Stars (for 3 major battle campaigns), the Combat Infantryman's Badge, the World War II Victory Medal, the Army of Occupation for Germany Ribbon, the Good Conduct Medal, the Ruptured Duck, and the Rifleman's Badge.

These honors arrived in the mail on the 23rd of December 1981 as the result of a query Forys sent to the National Personnel Records Center. There had been a major fire at the Center in 1972.

Just recently, Forys decided to find out if his military war records had survived. A few months after his query, he received the package of medals and ribbons. Now the rest is history, Mr. Forys' history. In 1946, Forys, then 18 years old, was called up as a replacement and assigned to the 104th Infantry Regiment of General Patton's 3rd Army. He crossed the ocean on the Queen Mary, landed in England, crossed the Channel, and landed in LeHarve, France. During the latter crossing, the ship in front of his was sunk. "The regiment aboard was lost. We could risk stopping, because of the submarines," Forys said.

From LeHarve, Forys was sent right to the front along with other soldiers moving up. Despite the extreme cold, they were shipped in unheated boxcars, the only available expedient means of transportation at the moment.

For the next two years, Forys took part in major battles along the Western Front, as his Regiment fought its way from Wiltz, Luxembourg to Budejovitz, Czechoslovakia, where they linked up with the Russians. The most famous battle he participated in was the "Battle of the Bulge." When the war ended, Forys stayed on in the Army of Occupation. Because of his knowledge of the Polish language, he was used as a translator for liaison with the Russians.

Upon his discharge, Forys returned home and resumed his civilian life. In 1948, he went to work for the Corps of Engineers as a member of the Care and Preservation Division at the Granite City Engineering Depot (Now the Granite City Army Depot). In 1960, he transferred to the Engineering Packaging Technical Office in Granite City, a tenant office directly under the Corps of Engineers. Forys took part in major battles along the Western Front, as his Regiment fought its way from Wiltz, Luxembourg to Budejovitz, Czechoslovakia, where they linked up with the Russians. The most famous battle he participated in was the "Battle of the Bulge." When the war ended, Forys stayed on in the Army of Occupation. Because of his knowledge of the Polish language, he was used as a translator for liaison with the Russians.

Of the awards he received, Forys was as surprised as he was pleased. "This was certainly not what I had in mind when I asked about my records. I had even forgotten that I had been put up for them. But I'm very happy they came, because they reminded me how much the sacrifices we made were appreciated."

Forys, originally from Madison, now resides with his wife in Collinsville, Illinois.

Entries sought for Town and Country art show

Do you have a flair for painting or drawing that is known only to family members and friends? Has your interest in photography led to enlargements and framing of choice photos? Do recipients of your art gifts rave about your original creations?

If so, why not enter the Madison County Town and Country Amateur Art Show which will be held from May 14 to 16, at Overbeck's Paint and Wallpaper Store, 130 N. Main, Edwardsville. There is a small fee for entering.

Winning works will advance to regional and state competitions.

Say Pazio, chairman of this year's show, says the committee is interested in recruiting artists of all kinds—including people whose modesty might usually prevent them from describing themselves as artists—for this year's show.

The show should provide good incentive for someone who's got a flair for various art forms to have an audience see his or her work and have it critiqued by a professional artist.

Works entered in this year's show will be judged and critiqued by Dr. Thomas Kovacs, Associate Professor of Art at the University of Illinois, Urbana. A verbal critique will be given by the judge at 6 p.m. on Friday, May 14 at the show site.

Examples of works being sought for the show include photos taken by participants and paintings, drawings and prints of any medium. Such work can be abstract, monochromatic, portraits, still-life groupings, landscape, etc., as long as they are original statements by the artist submitting them.

Deadline for entering and paying fees is April 30. Entry forms and complete details are available at the University of Illinois Extension Office, 900 Hillsboro Avenue, in Edwardsville. Request for mailed forms can be made by calling 656-8400.

The Town and Country Amateur Art program is sponsored by the University of Illinois College of Agriculture. The Cooperative Extension Service, the College of Fine and Applied Arts, the College of Applied Life Studies and the Office of Continuing Education and Public Service.

Strongarming produces $20

A strongarm robbery occurred Thursday at 22nd Street and Delmar Avenue, authorities were told.

A man thought to have karate skills left an auto to confront two Granite Cityans, Donald Marcus and Phyllis Cagle, as they walked along 22nd Street. Money was demanded to settle what the strongarm man described as a $40 debt from five months ago. When a threat to cause physical harm was voiced, the woman handed over $20.

A suspect is being sought.

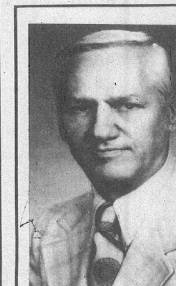

Justices added Frustrated by judicial rulings declaring New Deal legislation unconstitutional, President Roosevelt asked Congress to add six justices to the Supreme Court on Feb. 5, 1937.

ship training is founded on the belief that every human being has the capacity to make sound decisions regarding his or her own life, based on accurate information and an understanding of himself and his motivations.

"The purpose of Operation Snowball is to bring together teenagers from the seven counties and professional resources to share information and examine feelings about alcohol and drug misuse and related life problems.

"The program 'snowballed' through inspiration and knowledge acquired at the Illinois Teenage Institute on Substance Abuse. ITI has been the focus of nationwide attention for its effectiveness in helping young people seek information, solutions and alternatives.

"Those interested in participating or in sponsoring a teenager may call 345-3200. The $60 scholarship fee for the weekend includes lodging and meals. Transportation will be provided from Collinsville.

"The program outlining the April session points out that it is 'not intended to serve as a therapeutic setting for individuals who are presently experiencing emotional or physical problems deriving from substance abuse.'

"All efforts are made to insure that Operation Snowball does not take on the responsibility of providing individual or group treatment.

"Primary goals of the program are to:

1. "Provide a quality learning experience regarding alcohol and drug abuse for high school students from area schools.

2. "Encourage the participants, by means of the learning experience and follow-up support, to serve as effective resources in developing appropriate activities and initiating helping relationships in their communities.

3. "Increase community awareness, knowledge and understanding through cooperation of various service organizations."

Major objectives of Operation Snowball are to:

A. Clarify and reinforce factual information and to correct misconceptions about alcoholism and drug abuse as well as the processes of treatment and recovery.

B. Differentiate between attitudes and facts.

C. Create understanding of the effects of alcohol and other drugs on individuals and society.

D. Enable students to make more responsible decisions about alcohol and drugs in their own lives.

E. Develop a greater sense of openness and trust among teens and adults which will promote personal growth.

F. Provide helping skills enabling participants to intervene appropriately in the life of a victim of alcoholism or drug addiction.

G. Motivate participants to make a contribution to the community which will reduce the devastating impact of such abuse.

Professionals in health, sociology, psychology, education, religion and social service will present general session talks, incorporating the most recent developments in alcohol and other drug prevention, treatment and rehabilitation.

Topics will include self-image, alcoholism information, interpersonal relations, pharmacology of drugs other than alcohol, role stereotyping, and prevention and intervention.

During Operation Snowball, small groups will meet regularly with discussion leaders for in-depth discussions of the subject matter from various personal and social perspectives.

At Belleville Area College, the drug education events will include group discussions, videotapes, films and speakers ranging from counselors to recovering alcoholics and drug addicts.

The BAC schedule follows:

Tuesday, March 30, 11 a.m., Edna C. family support group; noon, Michael Powers of Hyattsville Center; 1 p.m., Ed S. Okaw Club, his story; 2 p.m., Dr. Thomas Flynn, Alcoholism and Drug Dependency Service.

3 p.m. March 30, Mary Freeman,

Belleville Mental Health, the progression and nature of alcoholism and the different phases of the disease; 4:30 p.m., "Guidelines," a 20-minute report on teenage drunk driving; 6 p.m. Sue S., her story; 7 p.m., Jack Bennett of Harbor House; and 8 p.m., John M., his story.

Wednesday, March 31, 11 a.m., Frank Hulse of the Alcoholism Council; noon, Jan A., her story; 1 p.m., Rose A. of AID of Collinsville; 2 p.m., Lois Harman of DeNovo Center; 3 p.m., Patty M. of the St. Clair Mental Health Center; 3:30 p.m., Roy V., Gateway; 4 p.m., teen drunk driving; 6 p.m. Roy C., his story; 7 p.m., Sue M. and Verna N., family support groups; and 8 p.m., Jim M., his story.

Thursday, April 1, 11 a.m., Sandra J. Fisher, Bridgeview Counseling Service; noon, Creton Higgins, Human Service Center of Randolph County; 1:30 p.m., Chuck Buck and Diana Appleton of Christian Northwest Hospital; 3 p.m., Ray P., his story; 4 p.m., "Guidelines," a 20-minute report on teenage drunk driving; 6 p.m., Teresa J., her story; and 8 p.m., Linda S., her story.

Friday, April 2, 11 a.m., Tom L., his story; noon, Erma, her story; 1 p.m., John Griesedieck, Edgewood Program; 2 p.m., Tim McAndrew, Human Service Center; 3 p.m., Mildred Brooks, Treatment Alternatives to Street Crimes; 4 p.m., 20-20 report; 6 p.m., Rick and Mary D., their story; 7 p.m. Tony B., Human Service Center; and 8 p.m., Debbie H., her story.

Bill Goodnick, a member of the Student Senate and coordinator of alcohol and drug awareness week at BAC, said Friday, "We want to inform people; we're not trying to reform them."

"We hope to inform people on positive and negative points of drugs and the abuse of these drugs. Current information will be presented on drugs, drug abuse and rehabilitation programs in this area."

"The awareness week should benefit all who attend. They may be able to use what they learn to help someone close to them someday. Everyone is welcome."

shorten the almost three days it currently takes some rail cars to work through the system to about 39 hours. Mike Michaels of the Norfolk and Western Railroad, explained his company's merger with the Illinois Terminal Railroad and the good effects another planned merger with Southern Railway could have on the area.

Michaels said the upcoming merger, which could be realized by early summer, would make the new Norfolk Southern line the fourth largest railroad in the nation.

Area industries would benefit with reduced transit time, and a single line would spare companies from having to haul their commodities from one line to another, according to Michaels.

O'Reilly told the area leaders that an organization hired to evaluate the St. Louis industrial and commercial region heavily criticized the labor-management relationship existing here. While citing the need for significant improvements, he said labor statistics can be misleading and should be counterbalanced by an area's own statistical horn blowing.

"You'd better get the right figures... to the right people," O'Reilly said. "You've got to talk about positive things," he added.

One mistake managers might make right now is to ignore the contribution labor could make to management, at a time some managers think unions are on the decline. He predicts the recession will break and unions will remember how they were treated in harsher times. "The pendulum swings back and forth," O'Reilly contended.

Next week, the final series speaker will compare Granite City to St. Louis and to other competitive markets. The talk will try to remove any myths that might cloud the area's economic development.

Eventually, Richardson said, the group will be asked to "take one step further" to discuss what they have discovered during the four-week economic opportunity smorgasbord and see what specific directions they are willing to take.

Presenting the evening were: Granite City Aldermen Sam Whitmer, Paul Fisk, Jake Varadian, Michael Modruskie, Walter Milton and Warren Decatur; Ida Dant, Madison alderman; Nick Petro, Granite City treasurer; Mac Warfield, Granite City street superintendent.

Dorothy Williams, Illinois Job Service manager; Robert Stack, director of the Granite City Public Library; Oscar Nazetta of the Granite City Foreign Trade Zone; Harley Davis, representing Associated Retailers; David Knollman, president of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce.

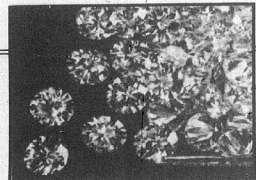

Al Hudzik, Madison comptroller; Wade James, Madison Assistant superintendent of schools; Paul Raskiewicz, vice-president of St. Elizabeth Medical Center; Drew Karandjeff, president of the Granite City (Trust) Bank.

William Donovan, works manager, American Steel; Jim Henderson, Luedera Agency; Dr. Robert Koepke, Southern Illinois University Edwardsville, economic development; Attorney Leo Konzen; Carl Mathias, Illinois Power; Carl Randt, manager, Tri-City Regional Port Authority.

Mel Wilmmsmeyer, president, Granite City First National Bank; Mary Kane, Madison County Board; Art Griffin, Labor's International Union; Von De Cruse, Granite City tax assessor; Walter Sparks, Chouteau Township supervisor; Norman Hall, Namecki Township tax collector; John Polson, vice-president of the Granite City (Trust) Bank; and Chris Paschoff, Venice Township supervisor.

February crime down in Madison

By MICK STRANGE

of the Press-Record

The February police report, given to the Madison City Council during its meeting Tuesday night, showed a 32 percent decrease in major crimes for the month.

Listing the February figures, followed by those of January in parenthesis: burglaries 5 (3), down two, thefts 16 (8), down by eight, auto theft 3 (0), down three. Assault and battery was the only category increasing from 4 to 8, up four.

During February, the report showed no criminal homicides, forcible rapes, or robberies.

In other business, Mayor Mike Sasyk said, "We had a meeting on ambulance service with Granite City, Venice and the townships that Granite City serves."

"They are wanting a new contract and are suggesting a rate hike from $95 a call plus a mile to $15 plus $2 a mile, regardless of what public aid or Medicare will pay. This could cost the city $50,000 to $25,000 a year," Sasyk said.

"The Madison Council is to be congratulated for establishing (its) own ambulance service, which is a great savings for our city."

Sasyk said Madison probably will need to contract with the Granite City ambulance service as a backup system. He said mutual charges between cities for the out-of-town residents serviced would be discussed.

"We have been trying a 30-day period of having our ambulance in full-time service and will report back to the council in detail how that has worked out," Sasyk said.

Alderman Charles Rickett noted that the city is having a problem with trash in the Fifth Ward. Sasyk recommended that the city work with the street department to find a solution to the trash problem.

A building permit was approved for a new home at 1928 Beckwith Ave., for Mike Danavani. Cost of the home is estimated at $38,000.

Building Inspector John Dutko reported that during the last two weeks there were 10 occupancy permits, eight temporary utility permits and two new 100 amp permits issued.

The council approved the petition of Jim Riskovsky, as recommended by the zoning board, for the renovation of commercial property at 1312 State St.

Levi Sign Co., Fairmont City, submitted the only bid for the signs for the new Madison mini-mail currently under construction.

The council authorized, pending approval of Farm Fresh and Reese Drugs, the awarding of the contract to Levi Sign.

The total cost for three signs will be $15,460, with $11,280 for the main sign to be located on the northeast corner of Third Street and Madison Avenue and $2,100 for each of the business signs.

Alderman Thomas Gordon made a report for Civil Defense Director Casimir Krakowicki, who was absent.

Gordon reported that a tornado drill in the schools was held and that there was a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 25, to train key persons in the event of tornadoes and how to spot them.

Mayor Sasyk then asked that a representative from the police department, fire department and Explorer Post 104 try and attend this meeting for the emergency instructions.

A mutual fire aid agreement with the local Army installation (depot) was approved, pending approval of City Attorney Casper S. Nighobossian.

The council approved a bill to Abstracts and Titles Inc. for $965, and another to the Granite City Press-Record for legal notices totaling $13 for the David Conople Alpine Village Shopping Center.

The project is funded by Industrial Revenue Bonds. Second Ward Alderman Ida Dant and Fourth Ward Alderman Christ Costoff were both absent from the meeting and Fifth Ward Alderman Don Garrett and Rickett were both late.

Handicapped to attend ice show

Bob Thomas, president of the Granite City Society for Handicapped Children, announced today that the Society will host its annual trip to the Ice Capades for crippled and handicapped children.

Louis Paschoff, chairman of the event, reported that Society members and special guests will attend the matinee performance on Saturday, March 27, starting at 4 p.m. at the Checkerboard.

Guest will be local children, parents and teachers. Refreshments will be served to them at intermission time.

Two school buses will be furnished by the R. W. Harmon Bus Co., leaving the ice rink in Wilson Park at 11:40 p.m. Saturday on a 1981 warrant charging unlawful possession of alcohol.

Granite City police, while on patrol saw Brooks in the 2300 block of Illinois Avenue.

HELD ON WARRANT
Ricky L. Brooks, 19, of 1932 Benton Ave., was arrested at 11:40 p.m. Saturday on a 1981 warrant charging unlawful possession of alcohol.

Granite City police, while on patrol saw Brooks in the 2300 block of Illinois Avenue.

will know exactly what is being taught and when through the coordination of textbooks, workbooks and study guides.

"Fifty-four curriculum programs, textbooks and workbooks have been reviewed during the past month by teachers, meeting at 7 a.m. on their own time, to help improve the quality of education in Madison," she said.

She further reported that at MHS eight percent of the seniors have achieved high honors and 25 percent have earned regular honors, resulting in a total of 33 percent of the seniors students qualifying for the honor roll.

Nine percent of students at the Middle School have been on the honor roll issued every six weeks.

She further noted that Madison Amvets, the Madison Junior Service Club and Madison Police Unit 110 have given money to help buy materials for school physical education emphasis programs in all grades.

GREEN LAWNS

GO WITH EXPERIENCE...

WE'RE CELEBRATING OUR 25th YEAR... This area's oldest lawn spray company... we invented it.

We know, as all agronomists know, that the secret to beautiful grass is properly scheduled applications of fertilizer, which kills to control both grass type (crabgrass) and broadleaf (dandelions, chickweeds and insecticide to control webworms, chinch bugs, etc.

Included in our spray program are applications of SLOW RELEASE NITROGEN THAT NEVER STOPS FEEDING as long as your grass is growing and actually slows down its feeding during periods of low rainfall when it's not needed. If your lawn isn't receiving applications of... NITROFORM... you're not getting your money's worth.

THE GREEN LAWNS PLAN...

Provides five sprays — early Spring, late Spring Summer, late Summer, early Fall, and Fall. It supplies fertilizers just when your lawn needs them. Five broadleaf weed sprays to control dandelion, chickweed, buckhorn, plantain spurge... Those weeds that seem never to stop coming up from early Spring to late Fall. Crabgrass control and insecticide applications in the Summer.

RATES FOR THE GREEN LAWNS PROGRAM ARE BASED ON THE AREA TO BE TREATED, NOT TOTAL LOT SIZE. AND... THE LARGER THE LAWN THE LOWER THE COST PER 1000 SQUARE FEET.

OUR PROGRAM CONTINUES YEAR AFTER YEAR — REQUIRES NO CONTRACT AND PROVIDES FOR PAYMENT BY MAIL AFTER EACH APPLICATION FOR AS LONG AS YOU DESIRE AFTER THE FIRST FIVE APPLICATIONS (5% DISCOUNT FOR PRE-PAYMENT.)

Golda Boyle

Mrs. Golda L. (Mathews) Boyle, 70, of 2517 Adams St., a lifelong resident of Granite City, died at 8:40 p.m. Sunday, March 21, 1982, at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where she had been a patient for one day.

She was a member of Niederrhingen United Methodist Church, the Harmony Sunday School Class in Alloy, and the Methodist Women and the Love Circle, at the church.

Mrs. Boyle was preceded in death by her husband, Charles "Chick" Boyle in 1973, and her daughter, Mrs. Patricia Fyffe in July 1967. Mrs. Fyffe, her husband Tom Fyffe and daughter, Tammy Fyffe, were killed in an auto accident in July 1967.

Survivors include one grandson, Bill Fyffe of Lucasville, Ohio; five sisters, Mrs. Alta Turner, Mrs. Fred (Irene) Laug, Mrs. William (Opal) Landman, Mrs. Marceline Dawdy and Mrs. Charles (Dorothea) Jones, and one brother, Ellis Mathews, all of Granite City.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Bob Thomas Memorial Mortuary, 2265 Pontoon Road, Call 931-2121 for further information.

Liva Broomfield

Mrs. Liva J. (Smith) Broomfield, 72, of 1701 Bryant Ave., Edwardsville, a former local school teacher, died at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, March 21, 1982, at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

She had been ill two weeks and a patient at the hospital for the same length of time.

Prior to retiring, Mrs. Broomfield taught school in the Granite City School District for several years on two different occasions. She was the current president of the May Building Senior Citizens' Association of Edwardsville.

Mrs. Broomfield had resided here for many years before moving to Edwardsville three years ago. She was born in Herrin, Ill., and was of the Protestant faith.

Among the survivors are her husband, Robert Broomfield; one daughter, Mrs. James (Jewell) Palerson of Edwardsville; a sister, Mrs. Charles (Wilma) Ferguson of Champaign, Ill.; one grandchild and two great-grandchildren. A brother, Rex Smith, preceded her in death.

Memorial services will be held at 2:30 p.m. Thursday, March 25, at Weber Funeral Home Chapel, 304 N. Main St., Edwardsville, with the Rev. David Maxton, pastor of the First United Presbyterian Church of Granite City, officiating.

There will be no visitation. Mrs. Broomfield's remains have been donated to Washington University School of Medicine for scientific study.

Frieda Frede

Mrs. Frieda (Wolff) Frede, 93, of 2518 Iowa St., died at 9 p.m. Saturday, March 20, 1982, at the Madison County Nursing Home, where she had been a patient for three days.

Born in Germany, Mrs. Frede had resided in this area for 55 years. She was a member of Concordia Lutheran Church.

Her husband, William C. Frede, died Oct. 29, 1973.

Survivors include one daughter, Mrs. Weldon (Peggy) Burch of Granite City, and four grandchildren.

Private family services will be held Tuesday at Davis Funeral Home, 21st Street and Cleveland Boulevard, with burial in Sunset Hill Cemetery, Edwardsville Township. There will be visitation. The family requests memorials be made to Concordia Lutheran Church, 2801 Grand Ave.

Raymond Holder

Raymond G. Holder, 78, of 7 Harbor Dell, Godfrey, Ill., formerly of Granite City, was pronounced dead upon arrival at 1:11 p.m. Thursday, March 18, 1982, at St. Joseph Hospital in Alloy, where he was taken by ambulance from home.

Mrs. Holder had not been in ill health and had been chopping wood, one of his usual chores, early Thursday morning. He was a Granite City resident for more than 50 years until moving to Godfrey in 1969 when he retired from General Steel Industries. He was employed 30 years as a welder at the local plant.

Mr. Holder was a U.S. Army veteran of World War I and a member of Masonic Lodge 877, AF&AM, Almad Shrine Temple.

He was a native of Laurel, Miss., and of the Protestant faith.

Among the survivors are his widow, Mrs. Ola (Lewis) Holder; a son, Richard E. Irwin of Granite City; one daughter, Mrs. Howard (Marilyn) Quenier of Wood River; three sisters, Mrs. Edna Junkert of Florida, Mrs. Bryan Hardin of Shreveport, La., and Mrs. A.C. Lovett of Bay Springs, Miss., and four brothers.

He was a member of the American Legion Post 133, Veterans of War in Granite City and Scott and Richard Black of Wood River. The Rev. C. Dale Edwards conducted services at 11 a.m. Saturday, March 20, at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, with burial in Sunset Hill Cemetery, Edwardsville Township. Masonic services were held at 8 p.m. Friday.

David Kendall

David H. Kendall, 83, of 45 Riviera Drive, died at 2:06 a.m. Friday, March 19, 1982, at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. He had been ill since March 15 and was hospitalized for the same period of time.

Born in Rison, Ark., Mr. Kendall had resided in Granite City since 1925. He was a World War I Army veteran.

From 1932 until retiring in 1964, he owned and operated Kendall Mobil Service Station at 19th Street and Madison Ave. He also was employed seven years at Paul's Granite City Auto Sales.

Mr. Kendall was a member of the First United Presbyterian Church, Masonic Lodge 877, AF&AM, Almad Shrine Temple, Legion of Honor and the Tri-City Shrine Club.

He also was a member of Tri-City American Legion Post 133, Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 1300, Sunset Hills Country Club and was formerly active in the Granite City Rotary Club.

Among the survivors are his widow, Mrs. Ollie (Galloway) Kendall; one daughter, Mrs. Vasil (Anita) Eftimoff of Granite City; a son, David H. Kendall of St. Louis; one sister, Mrs. Gay Harrison of Rison, Ark., and three grandchildren.

Services were held at 11 a.m. today, March 22, at Randall A. Irwin Chapel for Funerals, 2801 Madison Ave., with the Rev. David Maxton officiating. Masonic services were conducted at 8 p.m. Sunday, March 21, in Sunset Hill Cemetery, Edwardsville Township.

Expressions of sympathy may be made through donations to Shriner's Hospital for Crippled Children.

James McCart

James E. McCart, 89, of 4035 Garden Lane, Ill. for two and a half years, died at 5:08 p.m. Saturday, March 20, 1982, at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where he had been a patient for nine days.

He was born in Moberly, Mo., and had resided in the Quad-Cities for 80 years. Mr. McCart was of the Pentecostal faith.

Mr. McCart retired in 1963 as a processor foreman from the Granite City Army Installation after 20 years service. He served in the Armed Forces during World War I and was a member of the American Legion Post 307, and World War I Veterans, Barracks 34.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Jane (Cleric) McCart; four daughters, Mrs. Dorothy Austin, Wood River, Mrs. Arnold (Elita) Rutherford, and Mrs. Jim (Virginia) Hall, both of Granite City; Mrs. Melvyn (Betty) Hill, Pinckney, Ill.; a son, Earl McCart of Wood River; one sister, Mrs. Cecil (Irene) Bauder, Venice; 16 grandchildren, 24 great-grandchildren, and one great-great-grandchild.

Ruby Nichols

Mrs. Ruby M. (Turney) Nichols, 86, of Granite City, was pronounced dead at 10:30 p.m. Saturday, March 20, 1982, by Randall Irwin, Madison County deputy coroner, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Edward (Mary Lee) Lurion, 1636 Venice Ave., where she was residing.

Born in Stoutland, Mo., Mrs. Nichols had lived in Granite City for 73 years. She was a member of Central Christian Church.

Mrs. Nichols was preceded in death by her husband, James W. Nichols on July 5, 1927, and a son, James T. Nichols, on June 19, 1943, who died while serving as a pilot with the U.S. Air Force in Africa during World War II.

Also surviving is another daughter, Mrs. Mildred Moss of Granite City; three grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Visitation will be at 5 p.m. today at Irwin Chapel for Funerals, 2801 Madison Ave., where funeral services will be conducted at 11 a.m. Tuesday, March 23, by the Rev. Dennis Rutledge. Burial will be in Sunset Hill Cemetery, Edwardsville Township.

James Russell

James O. Russell, 60, of Union, Mo., a former resident, died at 5:45 a.m. Friday, March 19, 1982, at St. Francis Hospital in Washington, Mo. He had been ill the past year and in the hospital for three days.

Mr. Russell resided in the Bend Road area for 20 years before moving to Union five years ago. He retired last year on disability from Vincent Brass and Aluminum, St. Louis, where he had been employed 10 years as a warehouseman.

He was a native of Flat River, Mo., and had served in the U.S. Army in World War II.

Mr. Russell was of the Baptist faith. Among the survivors is his widow, Mrs. Mildred (Mathis) Russell; two sons, Robert Russell of Granite City and George Russell of Union, Mo.; one daughter, Mrs. Edward (Haverth) of St. Louis; a brother, William F. Russell of Iron County, Mo.; one sister, Mrs. Genevieve Cooley of St. Louis, and five grandchildren.

Services were held at 10:30 a.m. today, March 22, at Kutis Funeral Home, 10151 Gravois, St. Louis. Burial will be in the National Cemetery at Jefferson Barracks, Mo.

News notes

A federal judge in Chicago on Thursday ordered the Illinois Department of Public Aid to ease its rules on Medicaid eligibility. If upheld, the ruling would allow 20,000 additional aged, blind and disabled people to receive benefits.

Because the state is now "powerless" to prevent halting of fluidation of public welfare supplies, the Illinois Supreme Court should act to keep the state's mandatory fluidation law in effect, the attorney general said in papers filed last week.

Circuit Judge Ronald Niemann has told the state to enforce the law and has ordered the Alton Water Co. to stop adding fluoride, which has been found by health authorities to reduce dental decay.

U.S. Senator Charles H. Percy of Illinois will introduce legislation tomorrow to ban the manufacture, sale and possession of armor-piercing handgun ammunition. Such bullets can penetrate bulletproof vests, doors and even automobile engine blocks.

What proved disastrous to the past election chances of Republican Richard Ogilvie and Democrat Dan Rostenkowski was the Illinois governor races has now been embraced by both 1982 aspirants, Adlai Stevenson III and Gov. James R. Thompson (R).

Thompson has received vocal support of income taxes. The governor is considering a plan for higher Illinois income taxes, an aide said Sunday. Earlier, Stevenson said this might be necessary due to federal revenue cuts.

With both the city and county consenting to demolition of the 1970 vintage former Madison County jail and sheriff residence on Main Street near the Courthouse in Edwardsville, razing may start as soon as Associate Judge Jonathan Isbell signs routine legal documents.

Chicago owners of handguns are hurrying to register them after passage of a city ordinance freezing registration and outlawing new ownership of pistols after April 9. The new law was adopted by aldermen in a 30-1 vote Friday.

Belleville Area College secretaries asked the board of trustees to recognize their affiliation with the Illinois Federation of Teachers. The board agreed that an election of a city ordinance freezing registration and outlawing new ownership of pistols after April 9. The new law was adopted by aldermen in a 30-1 vote Friday.

The planning committee for the institute included Marieann Hay of the Venice schools, Harold Gebhardt and Merna Musterman of the Granite City district, Delores Folkerts of the Madison school system and Terry Schmidt, Laurie Kocur, Chadwick Seaton and Sister Mary Esther from nonpublic schools.

Aiding Regional Supt. Harold E. "Gene" Briggs in the arrangements are Raymond Dragich, Nancy Krchniak, Owen Humphrey and Janet Keller of his staff.

The seminar will be presented by the Home Extension Group of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and will be led by Kathryn Mauck.

Topic presentations will include "What You Need to Know Before the Funeral," "Unexpected Widowhood," and "Keeping Track of Family Records."

The conference is open to the public and there is no charge. Mae Ella Chatman is president of the society and Rev. Alfred Johnson is pastor.

River peaks below flood stage here

Although high water in Central Illinois is causing record crests in some areas and has broken the levees north of Beardstown, there is no immediate danger of flooding in the St. Louis area, according to the U.S. Corps of Engineers.

The river level, which peaked at 26.6 feet at Locks and Dam 27 at Granite City during the weekend, 3.4 feet below flood stage, is declining and is expected to continue to decline during the remainder of the month.

At St. Louis, the forecast was for the water to reach a high of 26.5 feet Saturday and decline daily to 26.1 Sunday, 25.6 today, 24.4 Tuesday, 22.9 Wednesday and 22.5 Thursday. From there, it is predicted to continue its fall to 18.6 feet by March 31, according to the Corps of Engineers.

By April 4, the water is expected to have dropped to 13.6 feet, the Corps added.

At the local locks, however, the water varied from 26.6 to 26.1 feet over the weekend. Figures on today's Corps' estimates are based on scheduled releases of flows from the C and E reservoirs and weather conditions, it was noted.

There is little or no precipitation forecast for this week, which may reduce the danger of immediate flooding, according to the U.S. Weather Service.

While the 26.6 foot crest during the weekend caused few problems in this area, 26.3 feet on the Illinois River at Peoria was more than eight feet above flood stage and sandbagging efforts were required to try and avoid danger in the downtown area. Approximately 80 families in a three-county area have been evacuated from their homes and approximately 240 families in the Peoria area have been asked to evacuate, according to the Associated Press.

At Beardstown, on the Illinois River 40 miles northwest of Springfield, a 40-foot levee broke Sunday, forcing the evacuation of residents of farms north of the city. Several hundred acres of farmland are covered by as much as four feet of water. The last time that levee failed was in 1979.

High water during the week has averted major problems as close at Hardin, Ill., where high water was causing bank collapses. Navigators were ordered to reduce speed and control wake in the lower reach of the Illinois River or be reported to the U.S. Coast Guard.

The bottom line is that there is a great deal of water rushing toward the St. Louis region, but the forecasts, thus far, are optimistic that severe flooding on Chouteau Island and other areas of the region will be averted this year, if the weather remains dry, if the river continues overflowing its banks and creating its own holding ponds north of here and if the Corps' forecast of a low river level, able to hold excessive amounts of water, proves true.

Ambulance cost is considered

By GEORGEANN MCGEE of the Press-Record

Area residents should not necessarily depend on their insurance companies or their municipalities to take care of their individual ambulance run costs. The public also should be educated about the use of the ambulance service.

Those were some of the opinions voiced in the second round of ambulance cost talks between the Granite City ambulance committee and neighboring municipalities, dependent upon Granite City's ambulance division.

"Our people have to know they are a part of this project," said Christ Pashoff, Venice Township supervisor.

Pashoff said residents should not demand service but are not willing to pay for the service or abuse the use of the ambulance service. He said some residents use the expensive ambulance service as a cab.

The Granite City ambulance committee began the talks after the city was no longer able to continue "bearing the (economic) brunt" for calls of residents from neighboring municipalities.

The city is particularly concerned about "write-offs" suffered through services provided to Medicare and state public aid recipients when reimbursement is limited.

As primary provider for these residents from Venice, Pontoon, Chouteau and Madison counties, Granite City lost about $20,000 last year.

The ambulance committee has proposed a change to the $125 rate. Residents must accept the increased ambulance run cost, in addition to a $2-a-mile charge, would be hard to sell, said Chouteau Township Supervisor Walter "Dick" Sparks at the meeting Thursday.

Sparks said he proposed, instead, that municipalities pay Granite City a periodic retainer fee to cover write-off losses and other costs. The city would, in turn, charge out-of-town residents the same fee as Granite City residents, who also support ambulance costs through property taxes.

A new TV station to air in fall

A new UHF television station is coming to the Granite City area with family, community, educational and religious programming. This station, KNLC Channel 24, will begin broadcasting this fall from its 675 foot tower in the House Springs, Missouri area.

KNLC Channel 24 is a division of the New Life Evangelistic Center under the direction of the Rev. Larry Rice. Between December 1st and March 1st, this center provided over 3500 blankets, 300 sleeping bags, 450 kerosene heaters, 150 wood furnaces, 15,000 pounds of food, and $42,000 in utility payments plus emergency housing for many more needy people during the recent severe cold weather.

Channel 24 will be providing a top quality signal to much of rural Illinois. It is particularly concerned about your programming suggestions. You are encouraged to write the station and tell them what programs you feel would be most beneficial to your community. These suggestions will be carefully studied now that the programming schedule is being devised.

Since KNLC Channel 24 is a non-profit television station, your volunteer help is also desperately needed. The Station is trying to locate volunteer weather spotters, community TV captains, and correspondents, and individuals who can communicate the importance and urgency of this Station to their community. If you are interested in being a part of this non-profit community Christian TV station, you are encouraged to write to: Television Station KNLC, Channel 24, P.O. Box 924, St. Louis, Missouri 63109 or call the Illinois office at: 274-5667.

Government to provide flood insurance

"Sure to happen on the way to spring is the melting of the heavy snow that has fallen and as it turns into water many streams and rivers will rise above flood stages," reminded Philip R. O'Connor, director, Illinois Department of Insurance.

Because of more than usual snowfall this season, coupled with spring rains, flooding likely will be more prevalent than for average years, advised O'Connor.

He said flood coverage may be purchased from any insurance agent licensed to sell casualty insurance. All flood insurance policies are issued by the United States government under the National Flood Insurance Act.

The cost of flood insurance is reasonable, but there is a 5-day waiting period before a policy goes into effect, said O'Connor.

He said flood insurance is available only in communities where county boards or city councils have requested the federal government to declare their regions to be in flood-prone areas.

O'Connor suggested those, living in frequently flooding areas where flood coverage is not available, should request that local government representatives pass resolutions asking the federal government to make flood insurance to residents.

"Housewife Headache"

It's true! Women DO have more headaches than men! And, there's a logical reason. Consider that about three-fourths of all headaches involve irritation of the nerves of the neck.

Now consider the typical daily chores of a housewife. As she cooks, washes the dishes, cleans windows and light fixtures, etc., she is almost constantly stretching, bending and tilting her head, thus straining the neck and setting up a possible displacement of neck vertebrae. Irritation of neck nerves, causing headache, often follows.

Chiropractic care is aimed at the discovery and correction of nerve irritation that causes headache and other forms of ill health.

SIUE evaluation program provides added bonuses

The academic program evaluation project underway at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville has produced an added bonus that administrators had not counted on.

Janet McReynolds, curriculum and research coordinator at the University's Academic Resource Center, commented that one of the dividends coming out of the research study focuses on the professional exchange and development that has occurred among staff and faculty members working on the project.

Along with nine other colleges and universities, SIUE has participated in a national pilot study which will eventually be used to assist other institutions of higher education ascertain how well they teach the general skills.

Sponsored by the American Association of State Colleges and Universities, the 2½ year pilot project is being underwritten by a grant from the Fund for the Improvement of Post-secondary Education.

The other nine schools are: Ball State University, Indiana; California State University, Chico; North Adams State College, Massachusetts; Ramapo College, New Jersey; State University College at Potsdam, New York; University of Nebraska at Omaha; Wayne State College, Nebraska; Western Carolina University, North Carolina; and Western Kentucky University.

During the 2½ year study, participating institutions were expected to examine how well they teach students to communicate, evaluate, quantify, analyze and synthesize.

The study involved defining the four skill areas for their institutions and students, establishing levels of performance in each skill area, determining where in the curriculum and university programs are being taught these skills, and finally, designing and conducting an evaluation of their institution's ability to meet its definitions of the four skill areas.

"The project has sparked communication among members of the project committee and provided an opportunity for faculty development and professional growth," Ms. McReynolds said.

The assessment plan included a random sample of freshmen and seniors as well as a number of students enrolled in general education classes. Analysis of the data is now underway.

"To my knowledge, this is the first time that such an attempt has been made to measure general learning outcomes at the University," Ms. McReynolds said, adding that the data obtained during the assessment period will enable the University to respond to changing student populations, and societal needs.

Zarr: Making up the mind of a highly recruitable athlete

By ROGER KRAMER
of the Press-Record

Many high school athletes are gifted in two sports during their prep years, but some of those are so good that they must decide which sport they will commit themselves to for their college career.

Mark Zarr, a 6'6" senior who played for the Madison Trojans football and basketball teams, is one of those athletes.

As a football player, Zarr completed 75 of 121 passes for 62 percent, the best completion rate among quarterbacks in the Press-Record area.

As a basketball player, Zarr averaged 12.6 points a game. The point production was not indicative of his contributions to the Trojans' 21-6 season.

With such impressive seasons in both sports, Zarr had to come to a decision somehow on what sport he wanted to commit himself to for the next four years.

In picking his sport, Zarr used a simple criteria. He wanted the sport he liked the best and had the most fun at.

His criteria for choosing a school was a little tougher. Zarr, an Illinois State Scholar with a 3.7 grade point average on a 4.0 scale, wanted a school with a strong engineering or computer science program.

Zarr received many letters from colleges asking him to visit the campuses, but only two coaches visited Zarr in Madison, both basketball coaches. It was starting to become clear which sport he would choose.

Next season, Mark Zarr will play basketball.

"It's just like it better, it's more fun," Zarr said. "During high school, we were going to state, and it just was more exciting."

Zarr also thinks football was fun, but basketball simply played a more important role in Zarr's athletic career. "I like to play football, but I like to play basketball better. I've played basketball longer than I have football, and I enjoy basketball more."

He acknowledges Madison's success on the basketball court and on the football field may have led him to his decision. During Zarr's years at Madison, he played for basketball teams which won the state championship (1980-81), finished fourth at state (1979-80), and won the tough Class A Regional at DuPont this season.

On the other hand, Madison's football teams were not as successful. During his three seasons on the varsity team, the Trojans won just four games.

"If we were winning, it might have made a difference in how much I enjoyed it," Zarr said.

Zarr sought the advice of both football coach Al Vonderharr and basketball coach Larry Graham before he made a commitment to basketball.

"Obviously, coach Vonderharr would have wanted me to play football. Coach Graham said it was up to me. I said I didn't want to play or go to school anywhere else," Zarr said.

Zarr is almost certain he will attend the University of Missouri at Rolla. It is not a big name basketball school like its sister campus at Columbia, but it has the type of programs Zarr is most interested in.

"I'm not sure what I will major in. I want to go into engineering or computer science. Rolla's about the best school in the nation for engineering," he said.

Eastern Illinois University also showed interest in Zarr. "They've talked to me a little bit, but Rolla's showed the most interest in me."

Zarr also has a bedroom drawer packed with information from other

The end of Zarr's years at St. Mary's also meant the end of Zarr's baseball. "There were just too many other things with football and basketball," he said.

As a freshman, Zarr played for the Trojans' junior varsity team. He played four varsity games that season. "Graham was showing me the fundamentals that year."

He was Madison's sixth man during the 1979-80 season. He credits playing against his teammates, many of whom were all-stars, as the biggest factor in his rapid improvement.

"I've always wanted to play for Madison because of what coach Graham was able to do with the teams. I didn't want to play or go to school anywhere else."

universities. "None of those other coaches have tried to contact me in person," he said.

Zarr started playing basketball in 1973. He, along with eventual Madison teammates Billy Papp and Denny Stern, all started playing basketball in the fourth grade. Most boys didn't start playing basketball until fifth grade.

"Some of the people didn't like the fact they were starting when they were in fourth grade," Mildred Zarr, Mark's mother, said. "St. Mary's had some of their best seasons ever when they played for St. Mary's."

The Zarr residence is just a few blocks from St. Mary's and is across from a baseball diamond. That gave Mark plenty of athletic experience in grade school.

Besides playing basketball at St. Mary's, young Zarr played baseball and sandlot football.

"He wasn't too bad of a baseball player," his father Gerald Zarr said. But there was the special spot in Zarr's heart for basketball.

"I watched basketball as a kid, and I always did like it," Mark said. "I always went out and wanted to play."

In grade school, Zarr was starting to grow taller than his peers. Like most youths who grow quickly, his coordination did not always catch up with his height.

"There were a couple of embarrassing things that went, one, but I'm not going to tell you what they were," Zarr said.

During Zarr's eighth grade season, St. Mary's won the league championship. After graduating from St. Mary's, Zarr could have either attended East St. Louis Assumption or Madison. The choice was really quite simple.

"I've always wanted to play for Madison because of what coach Graham was able to do with the teams. I didn't want to play or go to school anywhere else," Zarr said.

"Playing against Kevin Stanley, Pat Hatter and Morris Hughes in practice really helped me out a lot," Zarr said.

Those seasons led to Zarr's biggest triumph as a basketball player, the 1981 Class A state finals. The game that stands out the most is the first round game with New Lenox Providence.

"We had heard a lot about Walter Downing (New Lenox's center who now plays for DePaul). We just had a lot of balance and we were able to beat them," Zarr said.

"It was a two point game all the way, and the last one to be ahead would win. We wanted to be the last one to be ahead. It was a lot of pressure for us to handle, but we handled it," he said.

Zarr was named second team on United Press International's all tournament team after Madison had won the championship.

With the state finals over, it was time to face reality again. Zarr would be the only returning starter for the Trojans. He had to be the leader this year.

Mrs. Zarr noted she doesn't have to force her son to do anything concerning basketball or his homework. "He's very good about practicing and doing his homework. You don't have to push him at all."

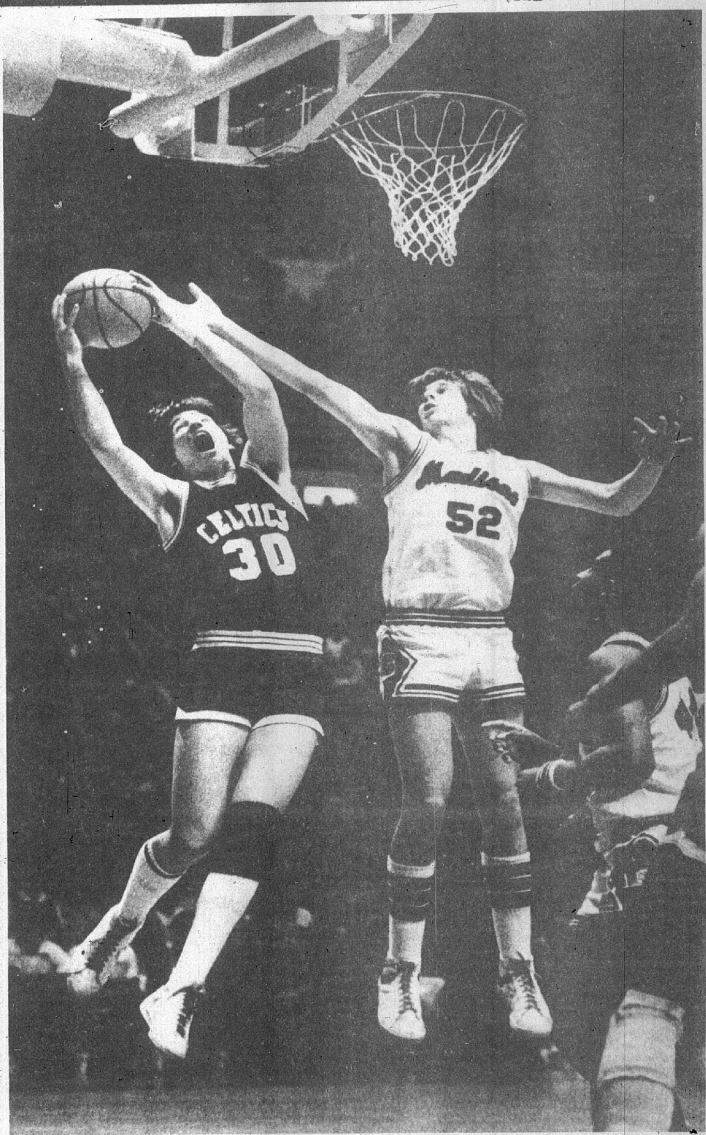

Zarr sees himself a little bit differently. "You don't have to push me to play basketball, but sometimes I need to be pushed to study."

"I never get tired of basketball," Zarr said. "Well, I do get tired after a long layoff of a week or so between games like we had this winter."

Zarr has little time for any activities besides football and basketball. "During the seasons, I don't get home until 6 p.m. Sometimes I go out with some friends, and sometimes I stay home and sleep," he said.

Both of Zarr's parents have attended almost every one of Mark's games since grade school.

Smith, Dowdy are Nemeth Award recipients

GRANITE CITY — Steve Smith of Granite City North and Ken Dowdy of Granite City South are this year's recipients of the George Nemeth Memorial Award. The award is given to the most dedicated senior wrestler from each high school. It is in honor of George Nemeth, who was the assistant wrestling coach at North from 1973 until 1981, when he passed away. Before going to North, Nemeth was the wrestling coach at Prather Junior High, where he coached both Smith and Dowdy. While a student at Granite High School, he was a two time

wrestling

Illinois state wrestling champion in 1957 and 1958. Smith, who wrestled at 119 pounds, finished third in the state this year. His record for the year was 36-3-1, with 12 pins.

Smith was chosen for the Belleville News-Democrat All-Star Team. He finished first in the district and second in the sectional this year. This was the third year Smith had qualified for state.

Dowdy, who wrestled at 167 pounds, finished the season with a record of 25-6. He had 14 pins, the most on the South team.

A two-time district champion, Dowdy won two matches at the state tournament this year before losing to the eventual state champion. He was the only wrestler from South who was chosen for the All-Star East Team, which is comprised of the best wrestlers from the metro-east area. The east team will meet the all-stars from the west side of the river in meet April 1 at Forest Park Junior College. This is the second year the award has been presented.

Umpires meeting

The Granite City Park District announces a meeting of all people interested in umpiring softball games during the upcoming season. Anyone wishing to umpire should attend the meeting on Monday, March 29, at 7:30 p.m. at the Nameoki Recreation Center.

Lincoln defeats Mendel, wins AA

By Jim Schlueter
of the Press-Record
CHAMPAIGN — The dream had come true for East St. Louis-Lincoln. The Tigers had defeated Chicago Mendel 56-50 in the championship game of the Class AA Tournament in Assembly Hall. They were state champions.

"It's really a happy feeling," Lincoln coach Bonnie Lewis said. "It's something I've never felt before."

Not since 1965, when Collinsville won the title, has a large school from the Metro East won the championship. Lincoln, who finished at 29-1, did it the way it has won so many of its games, with a strong zone and defense and control of the boards.

All-state forward Todd Porter scored 22 points and grabbed 10 rebounds, while his teammate of three years, Tyron Jackson, had eight points, pulled eight boards, and had five blocked shots. Junior forward Mark Dale had 12 points and 12 rebounds.

half. If the Monarchs could have continued to press Lincoln in the second half, they could have caused some problems for the Tigers, but they were obviously a worn out team. Just hours earlier they had stunned top rated Quincy in the semi-finals, and by the third quarter they were running out of gas.

Dale opened the second half with two free throws and a jumper, and Porter made one of his patented baseline drives to give Lincoln a 37-28 lead. The Tigers were able to keep a comfortable margin until the end of the game.

But with less than three minutes left, Mendel made a final charge. Michael Hampton hit from the lane and Andre Banks made two free throws to make it 51-48.

Fairmount opens

The long awaited opening of the thoroughbred racing season takes place Friday, March 26. The 162 day season extends through November 6.

The racing schedule begins with night racing Wednesday through Saturday at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday afternoon racing at 1:30 p.m.

On May 1, this changes, as the Saturday program will left in the game.

After Dale missed the front end of a one and one, Hampton hit a jumper to cut the lead to one with 1:51 remaining. Porter hit two free throws with 1:19 to go in the game, and then Lincoln went into its chaotic stall that thrilled the crowd but seemed on the verge of losing control.

Mendel had one last chance when the Tiger's Calvin Phiffer missed a free throw with 26 seconds left. But when Mendel came down for a shot Jackson rejected at field goal try underneath and the ball came out to Phiffer. The 6-foot-2 guard raced down the court for a triumphant one-handed stuff to seal the Tigers' first state championship.

be run in the afternoon at 1:30 p.m. This schedule will then extend through the Labor Day weekend. The schedule will begin Tuesday through Saturday at 7:30 p.m.

Admission rates remain at $1.75 for the grandstand and $2.75 for the clubhouse. The parking fee for general parking remains the lowest in the country at only 50 cents.

Mendoza takes second in Golden Gloves

Hooded and robed boxers waiting, dancing in the corridors, throwing punches at targets in the distance are traits of Golden Glove boxers before a championship fight.

Golden Gloves competition is amateur boxing at its finest.

No one at Kiel Auditorium Saturday night would dispute that. Only professional boxing matches surpass the grandeur of the event.

Numerous adjectives can describe the event beforehand, but pulses quicken, and the intensity soars as fighters make their spotlighted march to ringside as Sylvester Stallone's "Theme from Rocky" blairs from the overhead speakers.

The boxers that make it to this competition are survivors, they're the best in their weight classes.

A local fighter, Dan Mendoza of the Mexican Honorary Commission's boxing team, can testify to that.

Mendoza, a one-time champion and a two-time runner-up in the prestigious boxing tournament, lost a close decision in the finals to Arthur Jimmerson of the Wellston Boxing Club.

Mendoza and Jimmerson pounded on each other for three rounds in what could only be described as the evening's premiere slugfest.

Their bout, number 14, brought a mostly sleeping audience by that time, to a standing ovation by the match's end.

Following Mendoza back to the dressing area, voices expressed support for the popular, but bewildered boxer.

"Nice fight Danny," said one.

"You should have won it Danny," said another.

"You can't feel bad about losing a fight like that one Danny," said another.

For "El Torito," it was another second place in as many years.

"He was good," said Mendoza. "We had met four times before, and I had won all four. He was good."

"I can't talk anymore now."

"Okay, I'll call you Danny," replied the observer.

An elated Jimmerson carried the gold trophy high above his head as trainers, coaches and managers escorted him back to the dressing area.

Mendoza held the silver trophy near his waist.

"I've got to say I think Jimmerson has improved since Danny's fought him last," said Mercie Mendoza, Danny's coach.

"It's always like this, the standing ovations and such, when these two meet."

"I don't want to say that Jimmerson was a little more hungrier, but I think he might have been in better condition," Mercie Mendoza said.

"Danny's been in the finals three times. He's won it once and finished second twice. Many have records like that," Mercie Mendoza said.

Zarr

"I'm his number one fan," Mrs. Zarr said.

Mark was the first of the Zarr's children to participate in high school sports. His older brother and sister did not play in any sports, and his younger sister, Carol, is a member of Madison's girls volleyball team.

Senior years are supposed to be years when athletes are supposed to show leadership qualities. Zarr was no exception to the rule.

Zarr, who is modest by nature, was suddenly thrust into leadership. As quarterback of the Trojan football team, Zarr was naturally a leader, and as center of the basketball team and the only returning starter, he was the nucleus of the Trojans.

Zarr had to start the uphill climb of the Trojans' football program. With only two wins in two seasons and defeats ranging to 63-0, Zarr faced a lot of adversity.

The first half of the football team's opener with Breese Central was living hell. Zarr's first completed pass of the season was fumbled away. Zarr, an Quad-County conference punter, the year before, was struggling to get a punt 30 yards in 90-degree heat. It looked like a long season.

However, things turned around quickly for Zarr. Not only did he lead the area in pass completion percentage, the Trojans began to be competitive. The Trojans were better than the 2-6 record had indicated.

Before last season when the Trojans were not highly regarded on the gridiron, Zarr managed to keep up hope for the future.

"I thought we'd win sometime," he said. "We never gave up."

Zarr credited Stern for being a good receiver and the Trojan defense. "They created a lot of breaks for us, and sometimes we weren't able to capitalize on them."

Basketball season presented a new challenge. The Trojans started the season with a 6-4 record, one of Madison's worst starts in years.

The Trojans started their season with nine games in a row. By midseason, Zarr had put together strings of 20, 22 and 27 points.

"I compare him to (Steve) Stipanovich as far as his importance to the team is concerned," Graham said after the Trojans defeated Hillsboro.

"Some people have been getting on Zarr because he hasn't been scoring as much as they think he should. He's feeling more like he's ready to assume the leadership role out on the court. He's feeling good about himself. We knew he had the talent, and he's using it now," Graham said.

Zarr and Carvel Claggett were the team leaders. Zarr was the Trojan Zarr was the silent leader while Claggett was the more vocal leader. Both players helped Papa guide the offense.

Madison improved enough to win the difficult Dope Class A regional. The Trojans had to face Vandalia in the first round of the Vandals' Sectional.

The Trojans had a five point lead at one point in the fourth quarter, but they allowed Vandalia to come from behind to defeat Madison.

"We started falling off when we had the lead, and that was it," Zarr said. "We did get everything together as a team, and we did improve," he said. "I thought we had a pretty good team this year."

On Feb. 13, Zarr and his sister Carol were driving with Darwin Freeman, Patricia Ponder Bend were riding driving on Route 303 near Bend Road near Madison.

A car allegedly driven by Arnold Henry of East St. Louis had crossed the snow-covered median and struck Freeman's vehicle along with two other vehicles.

Freeman was thrown from his car against a snowbank and died. Zarr was extremely fortunate.

"I got lucky. I was just hit in the head. I don't think I had a concussion," Zarr said.

"I don't remember anything before or after the accident. I think I was fortunate that I wasn't able to remember what had happened," he said.

Until Zarr leaves for college he will continue to practice basketball and work on weights to get in shape for college basketball.

Zarr will probably be a forward in college. "There's a big change between playing center and forward. I thought that's probably what I would be playing, so I've been working on that."

"I really want to be ready for practice and the games. Everybody's wanting to play hard out there," Zarr said. "Anytime I have the chance to win, I'm going to because it will be for my own good."

Graham, Madison B of E make amends

Larry Graham, Madison High School's basketball coach, has reserved comment, but it appears he will be back next year as coach at that school.

"I really don't want to say too much right now," Graham said, "but there's a good possibility that I'll be back next year (as coach of the Trojan basketball team)."

Graham said he "wanted to see some changes" in the manner in which the Madison Board of Education handles the sports programs. Graham would not elaborate further.

Rumors of Graham's alleged resignation abounded last week following his submission of a letter to the effect to the Madison Board of Education.

It was suspected that the Madison Board of Education would act on Graham's resignation last Thursday at its meeting, but didn't. Apparently Graham and school board members had taken the initial steps to resolve their differences, the business didn't appear on the agenda. School board members, for the most part, declined comment.

"We (members of the school board) talked to Graham. We're going to try and get something worked out," said Sam Dymas, school board president. "We don't want to lose Mr. Graham," Dymas said.

Graham, 39, has been Madison's basketball coach for 13 years, during which time he has compiled a 271-91 record. Along the way he and the Trojans have picked up two Class A state championships, in 1981 and 1977.

Reportedly, Graham's letter of resignation stemmed from the board's denial of granting him $15,000 to tend the Class A state basketball championships in Champaign.

Dymas said the school board was presently drawing up a policy that would enable all Madison High School coaches to attend state championships, whether Madison was participating or not.

"No matter what the sport, all coaches will be able to attend the state championship game," Dymas said. "We're going to make it a policy that it'll be in the books. No one will worry about asking the board for money (to attend)."

Soccer clinic

The Tri-City YMCA Soccer Association will sponsor a coach's and referee's soccer clinic Tuesday, March 23, at the YMCA located at 2001 Edison in Granite City.

Two guest speakers, one who will discuss coaching, and another who will discuss refereeing, will lead the clinic.

Atom League openings

The Granite City Park District is looking for baseball players for the 1982 baseball season.

Players in the Atom I League must be eight years old or born in 1974. To play in the Atom II T-Ball League children must be nine years old or born in 1973. In the Bantam I baseball league, players must be 10 years old or born in 1972 and in Bantam II baseball league, players must be 11 years old or born in 1971.

Managers have been checking the Park Office for names of players interested in playing this year. Please call the Park office at 677-3059 to register anyone who didn't play in the park league last year and who would like to join a team.

Polish dissident to speak at McKendree

In December of 1981, many Americans lit candles in their homes in support of the human rights struggle which was currently taking place in Poland.

Has any liberalization occurred as a result of the defiant workers' strikes in Poland?

Are the rights of the Polish people being supplied by a repressive Communist government? These questions will be discussed at a lecture given by noted Polish dissident Tadeusz Walendowski on Tuesday, March 23 at 7:30 p.m. at McKendree College's Upper Deeney Center in Lebanon. Tadeusz Walendowski was born in 1944 to working-class parents in the Polish city of Lodz. He received his M.A. degree in sociology from the University of Lodz and continued his studies in the interaction of social theory, ethics, and practice under a doctoral fellowship from the Polish Academy of Sciences in Warsaw.

In March of 1968, he was arrested and interrogated by the political police for leading a student uprising in Lodz, which resulted in the loss of his position at the Polish Academy of Sciences.

In October of 1969, Walendowski entered the directing department of the State Film School in Lodz where he directed and filmed documentaries and short feature films. In 1970, Walendowski was again arrested for photographing a demonstration in Gdansk. Since 1976, Walendowski has been associated with the Committee for Social Self-Defense, known as "KOR," the major liaison between recently striking Polish workers and Western journalists.

Walendowski founded a discussion forum in his apartment which would eventually become an important meeting place for opposition intellectuals and founded the literary magazine PULS. Walendowski contributed to other uncensored magazines published in Poland and was active in the underground publishing movement, editing, translating, printing, and distributing unofficial Polish publications as well as books banned by the Communist Government in Poland.

He prepared an exhibit entitled "Behind the Facade," which pertained to the opposition movement in Poland. The exhibit was smuggled to the West and shown at the 1978 Biennale in Venice, and in Washington, Chicago and New York.

Unable to obtain work, Walendowski left Poland in 1979. Since coming to the U.S., he has established the Polish Watch Center in Washington, D.C., an organization which monitors and reports on current events and human rights in Poland.

The event is free of charge and open to the public. For more information, contact Phyllis Kuhl, (618) 537-4481, ext. 135 or 220.

Transfer students from BAC doing well at SIUE

Belleville Area College students transferring to Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville out-perform other students at that university, according to a report released by SIUE.

BAC students earned a higher mean grade point average than both the average student transferring from other Illinois public community colleges and students attending the university from their freshmen year.

BAC students had a mean grade point average of 3.64. Other community college transfer students had an average of 3.58 and students attending the university from their freshman year had an average of 3.43.

New approach to SIU audits

The position of system internal auditor has been created last week by the Southern Illinois University Board of Trustees, and the board approved the appointment of Jack E. Simmons, internal auditor at SIU at Carbondale, to fill the position.

The internal auditor will report directly to the chancellor of the SIU system and will serve as principal adviser on internal auditing matters as well as serving as principal liaison for the university system with external auditors.

According to guidelines adopted by the board, the directors of internal audit at the universities will continue to report directly to the presidents, but they will work closely with the system internal auditor in the execution of a system internal audit plan approved by the chancellor.

Additionally, the chancellor will approve the employment and discharge of each director of internal audit, as well as changes in salary for those officers.

Trustees also approved changes in the charge of the board's finance committee, to recognize the new auditing position and to clarify operating procedures.

Board officials said the new position, the finance committee changes and internal audit operating guidelines were proposed and approved in response to recommendations made by the Illinois auditor general in the 1981 compliance audit.

Lab shows cookies contained cyanide

Results from a Chicago laboratory confirm suspicions that a batch of chocolate chip cookies given to a Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville professor in January were sprinkled with cyanide.

Agent Randy Rushing of the Illinois Division of Criminal Investigation said analysis shows that a powdered form of cyanide was sprinkled on top of the cookies, in more than sufficient amounts to be lethal to the instructor, if he had eaten them.

Michael Matta, chairperson of the chemistry department at SIUE, received the cookies as a gift from one of his students. He viewed the cookies and told the student to place them in his faculty mail box.

When Matta later returned to get the cookies, he noticed the powdery substance on top and suspected it to be cyanide, Matta informed authorities.

Rushing said that the student who gave Matta the cookies is not a suspect in the case. The DCI has no suspects, he said, but is continuing to question individuals.

The cyanide could have very easily been obtained by just about anyone, Rushing said, because it is readily accessible in the chemistry department at the university.

"Of course, cyanide is not that hard to come by outside the university, either," he said.

Alimony recipients must report payments on tax return

Divorced or separated persons who are paying or receiving alimony should be aware of tax rules that affect them, the Internal Revenue Service said.

Alimony, separate maintenance, or similar periodic payments are taxable to the person who receives them and deductible by the person who pays them, if the payments are: required by a court decree or written agreement; based on marital or family relationship; paid after the decree or separation agreement and periodic rather than a lump sum.

The person making the payments can deduct the expense from gross income without itemizing deductions.

Separated individuals making payments under a written separation agreement cannot take a deduction for their payments if they file a joint tax return. Property settlements do not qualify for this tax treatment even if the settlement is made in periodic payments.

In addition, child support payments are not covered under these rules. If, however, the decree or agreement does not specifically state the amount of the payment considered to be child support, the entire payment is treated as alimony. IRS Publication 504, Tax Information for Divorced or Separated Individuals, explains the tax treatment of alimony in more detail. The IRS suggests that persons wishing to get a copy should use the handy order blank in their tax package.

FREE CLASS ON SAFE BOAT SKILLS AT BAC

Lynda Simon heads state tourism office

Lynda Simon was recently named managing director of the Office of Tourism within the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs (DCCA).

In her new assignment, Simon will be working closely with the state's new public relations and advertising campaign for economic development, "The Magnificent Miles of Illinois," and its promotional corporation, Illinois, Inc. The program's five-year goal for tourism is to increase Illinois' share of total U.S. tourism revenue from 3.2 to 4.2 percent and increase tourism-related employment by 26,000 jobs.

Simon said she will concentrate her efforts on showing the state's four regional tourism councils how to coordinate their promotions under the state's umbrella campaign.

"We hope to draw the regions together in one united push for tourism dollars and jobs in Illinois," Simon said. "Together, we can realize the goals set forth by Illinois, Inc."

Simon will also coordinate the state's efforts with those of the Chicago Promotion Council (CPC), an organization of business and community leaders with a vested interest in Chicago as a place for tourism and industry. Under the theme, "My Kind of Town," the CPC recently launched a major marketing program which will include a national advertising campaign to begin later this year.

Selecting wardrobe is chapter program

Mrs. Judy Knox, a representative of Robert Morris College, was the guest speaker at a monthly meeting of the Madison Chapter of Future Secretaries Association, held at the Madison High School.

Mrs. Knox spoke on "Selecting Your Wardrobe for the Interview and the Day in the Office" program. She stressed this is the area to do extensive planning whereby a young woman on a limited budget can use a few clothing articles and by purchasing other items to mix and match will produce appealing combinations.

The speaker also noted the dress code for school changes when one enters the business world. She pointed out that appearance is important in the interview because it is the first thing most people notice about the applicant.

After her introductory speech, Mrs. Knox used a wardrobe selection, which she paid less than $200 and demonstrated how one using proper planning could have over 100 combinations suitable for office wear.

Tracy Champion, chapter president, presided over the business segment and reminded the group of the next meeting set for April 13.

DNRS House Tour to feature older homes

by DONNA KIMBRO
of the Press-Record

Old homes in the downtown area that have been renovated to improve the living area compatible to a more modern atmosphere, yet retain the old charm of the early era will be on the May 2 House Tour, sponsored by the Downtown Neighborhood Restoration Society.

The idea for the house tour, to show the ingenuity of the individual homeowners, in taking a house with unique possibilities, add a lot of hard work, and finish with a restored showplace at a minimal cost, began in 1974 when the first such show was promoted.

Each house on the tour has a distinct historical background and features many antique and attractive facades such as staircases, lighting fixtures, windows, woodwork, fireplaces, and many other homelike designs attractive to a former lifestyle as well as today's mode of living.

One of the houses listed on the itinerary of this year's tour will be the home of John and Sharon Calaway, 2205 Delmar Ave. The house was purchased in 1931 by Carl and Emma Wolf, grand-children of John Calaway.

The young couple are restoring the house to what it might have been 50 years ago. They have collected pieces of furniture from his family and have acquired the dining room furniture his grandmother bought when she moved in the dwelling.

Other pieces of furniture include a marble top dresser in the master bedroom, which is serving its fourth generation and a bedroom suite purchased by the couple from a newspaper advertisement and found the date of 1923 on the back of the mirror.

Mr. Calaway also found a 1938 Zenith radio which he has repaired and plans to have on display in time for the tour.

Mr. and Mrs. Calaway are collecting history of the area and since his forebears were early settlers they have family documents dating from the early 1800's. They have tried to retain as much of the original house as is possible. The wallpaper upstairs dates from the thirties and carpeting in the house is from the 1940's. Some of the lighting fixtures have come from other homes in the downtown area before people could throw them away as they modernized their home.

Stained glass windows are original features and new projects include all new wiring and a complete remodel of the kitchen, where they took out walls and eliminated a pantry for a more wide open space effect.

Tickets for the eighth home tour may be purchased from any member of the host organization, according to the planning committee.

Friendly Circle elects officers

The Friendly Circle of Dewey Avenue United Methodist Church met last week at the church and elected a new corps of officers to serve for a two-year term.

Mrs. Evelyn Thompson was named president and other officers include Mrs. Virgie Settle, vice-president, Mrs. Madara Shaw, secretary and Mrs. Robbie Donley, treasurer.

A St. Patrick's Day luncheon was served prior to the meeting by Mrs. Settle and devotions were presented by Mrs. Shaw.

The next session is scheduled for April 8, it was noted.

Mrs. Sternberg entertains club

The Noon-Day Opti-Mrs. Club met in the home of Mrs. Ruth Sternberg, Monday, for a luncheon meeting. Those attending provided a variety of sandwiches and a dessert course was served by the hostess and Elsie Branding, Bobbie Roach and Betty McGinnis.

The invocation was given by Mrs. Branding and the members recited the Opti-Mrs. Creed in unison led by Mrs. Sternberg.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Lorain Ranft, vice-president, called the meeting to order and 24 members responded to roll call.

Mrs. Pat Konzen announced she is still inquiring about applicants for a nursing scholarship and Mrs. Louise Anderson said the Opti-Mrs. meeting on April 15. An oratorical contest will be featured at the meeting, she added.

During the social hour cards games were played and prizes awarded to Mesdames Virginia John, Helen Todd, Ann Little, Helen Wyman, Gladys Pape and Edna Bickel.

Others present were Mildred Branding, Georgia Engelke, Tommie Kirchhoff, Dorothy McCauley, Catherine Michel, Lydia Nelson, Ella Odum, Marge O'Neill, Myra Parrish, Muriel Vehl, Mary Werner and Catherine Witterongel.

KRAUS PROMOTED TO SERGEANT RANK

Timothy S. Kraus, son of Frank J. Kraus, 2622 Iowa St., has been promoted in the U.S. Air Force to the rank of staff sergeant.

Kraus is a telecommunications control specialist at Yokota Air Base, Japan, with the 1956th Communications Group. He is a 1975 graduate of Granite City High School South.

SEMC president breakfast speaker

Sister Mary Thomas, president and board chairman of St. Elizabeth Medical Center, will be guest speaker at the Granite City Business and Professional Women's annual "Prayer Breakfast," it was announced today by Mrs. LaVelle Stephens, chairman.

The traditional event will take place at 8 a.m. Sunday, March 28, at Charlie's Restaurant.

The Rev. Charlotte Zachary, pastor of the First United Presbyterian Church in Madison and a member of the sponsoring club, will offer the invocation.

SISTER MARY THOMAS
BPW Speaker

Hospital Association and Illinois Hospital Association. She also has served on the Provincial Council of the Sisters of Divine Providence for the past 10 years.

As a member of a religious order and a woman executive, Sister Mary Thomas successfully bridges the gap between the concept of traditional and contemporary roles for women, the breakfast chairman noted.

Cloverleaf Club installs officers

The Cloverleaf Garden Club installed new officers at a Sunset Hill Holiday Inn luncheon meeting.

The club presented retiring President Mrs. John Jenkins with a gift before installing the new president, Mrs. John Lentz.

Other officers installed were Vice-President Mrs. Clarence Etheridge, Secretary Mrs. George Knapp and Treasurer Mrs. B. C. O'Neill. Mrs. Knapp served as the installing officer.

The new president was presented with a red cyclamen plant.

Prior to the ceremony, a short business meeting was conducted by the retiring president, Mrs. Fred Orr read the collect.

The club voted to purchase two red maple trees in observance of the 100th Anniversary of Arbor Day. The trees will be given to the Salvation Army.

The club decided to hold a patio and plant sale sometime in May at the home of Mrs. Eldon McClanahan.

Others present at the meeting were Mrs. George Sterns, Mrs. Robert McCauley and Mrs. Charles Gandorla.

CARRIE PETROVICH of Granite City selects courses from the class schedule at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville during spring quarter registration. Miss Petrovich is a freshman at the university with an undecided major. Open registration also will be held March 29-30 from 8:30 a.m. until 7 p.m. in the lobby of the Rendleman Building. In charge of registration and admission procedures are the Office of Admissions and Records, 692-2720, for undergraduates and the Graduate Admissions Office, 692-3160, for graduate students.

Form local Christian Athletes groups here

The Madison Board of Education approved at its meeting Thursday night the formation of two local chapters of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA). A chapter at the Madison Middle School, and another at Madison High School.

The FCA is a non-denominational inter-faith organization that strives to promote the development of personal faith among youth.

The FCA attempts to achieve its goal through the formation of "huddles," or chapters on basically high school and college campuses.

Membership is strictly on a voluntary basis and meetings are not held during school hours.

Advisors for the MHS FCA chapter are Charles Steptoe, head track coach, and Mark Jiles, a MHS biology teacher and assistant football and track coach.

Albert Collins at the Madison Middle School will be the chapter sponsor there.

The program has the strong support of both Daniel S. Kostencki, principal at MHS, and Earl McClanahan, principal at the Madison Middle School.

McClanahan in a letter to the board said: "Young people of today are very much in need of improved morals and values. We are encouraged by our Illinois state superintendent to teach these in our schools today. This could be a start."

FCA was started in 1964 by Don McClanahan a coach in Oklahoma.

The program received a big lift in the early days by the famous Branch Rickey of baseball fame.

The group's national offices are in Kansas City, Mo. across from Arrowhead stadium.

FCA has 60 active chapters within the greater St. Louis area.

Miss Freedman appearing in new television series

Twenty-four-year-old Winifred Freedman of Granite City seems to have found her niche in Hollywood and has landed a part in the new television series "Joanie and Chachie," which premieres tomorrow on network television.

She plays the part of Annette in the four episode pilot, which will become a regular series if the pilot wins public acceptance. Since it is a spinoff of the highly-popular "Happy Days," success is being predicted.

Miss Freedman is the daughter of Dr. Melvin J. Freedman of Creve Coeur, Mo., who practices medicine in Granite City, and Mrs. Julie Freedman.

Winifred is a native of Granite City and graduated from Granite City High School in 1975 as class salutarian. She went on to attend Northwestern University School of Speech and Drama, graduating in 1979. At both high school and the university, she was

Machinist leads crusade marijuana against

By THOMAS W. PAUKEN

Ten years ago, Otto Moulton of Danvers, Mass., took his son to the hospital to repair a shoulder injury. While he was in the waiting room he noticed several boys who appeared disoriented. He asked the doctor attending his son what was wrong with them and the doctor replied, "Mr. Moulton, we can fix what is wrong with your son. I wish it were as easy to fix what is wrong with these boys."

Moulton forgot the doctor's answer until five years later when as a Little League coach and the owner of a machine shop in Topsfield, Mass., he began to observe similar disturbing behavior on the baseball diamond and in his plant.

As he put it: "I began to see children I was working with changing, becoming apathetic both to athletics and school, and at the same time, I began to recognize the same kind of changes taking place in some of my employees."

subject in New England. Armed with facts, with T-shirts and bumper stickers and films, he speaks to community groups, to schools, to conferences all over the country. His warning is simple: "Unless the use of pot is stamped out, this nation and its greatest resource, the young people, are in deep trouble."

To fight against the purveyors of marijuana and its heavily financed lobby who seek legalization of the drug, Moulton, who is now vice president of the National Federation of Parents for a Drug Free Youth, has organized Committees of Correspondence to spread the word.

Taking a feather from Samuel Adams' tricorne, he issues through the committees his publication, "Drug Abuse Issue of the Month." "It is all the latest on the fight to outlaw 'head shops' which sell drug paraphernalia to children; the latest medical findings concerning the harmful effects of marijuana; reports of growing efforts to get drug education text books into schools; and word on an increasing determination to prevent the legalization of marijuana. Moulton believes the most important contribution everyone can make is to let their elected officials know how they feel on this vital issue. Letters from all over the country pour in thanking him for his dedication and energy. Says Moulton of his efforts, "Even if we save only one child, who can put a price tag on that? He's done much more than that and now, as a leading figure in the war on drugs, he is helping to turn a tide that has run unchecked for too long. More power to the Otto Moultons of our country."

Bring homes back within reach of the average family

The housing industry is in need of immediate, short-term relief which will avoid applying more pressure on the already excessive federal deficit, Julio S. Laguarda, president of the National Association of Realtors, told members of the House Housing Subcommittee, March 16. We agree, in view of the horrendous slump in real estate activity in the Quad-City area and elsewhere.

"Federal spending and budget deficits must be reduced to facilitate a healthy economy. This is critical to the survival of the interest-sensitive real estate industry," Laguarda testified. "The longer economic recovery is postponed, the more desperate our situation and that of the homebuying public becomes."

Acknowledging the importance of single-family housing, Laguarda stressed that the existing housing market also must become strong and active to complement the new construction byproduct of any longer-term program Congress may provide this year.

Consistent with its view that federal spending must be reduced for a stable economy and a healthy housing industry, the Association outlined the following recommendations to provide immediate housing relief:

1. Administrative and legislative changes should be made to the mortgage revenue bond program to increase the number of bonds that can be issued and make mortgages provided by the bonds more widely available. Under this program, as many as 500,000 families could achieve homeownership within one year of the date these changes are adopted.
2. First-time homebuyers should be allowed a federal income tax credit of up to $5,400 on the purchase of a home between March 1 and Dec. 31, 1982. The NAR president said that more than 250,000 first-time homebuyers, who would not have been able to afford a home otherwise, could purchase one this year.
3. Mortgage lenders should be able to take a federal income tax credit of up to $5,400 if they make home mortgage loans during the period of March-December 1982. To qualify, lenders would be required to use the credit to decrease the effective interest rate on the mortgage by three percentage points for a three-year period.

"Much, if not all, of the cost of either of these tax credit proposals could be recouped through a curtailment of the existing All Savers program as of March 31, 1982, instead of its current ending date of Dec. 31, 1982," Laguarda said. In his testimony, he also addressed the problems of the thrift industry related to high interest rates.

The National Association of Realtors, the nation's largest trade association, represents nearly 700,000 individuals involved in all phases of the real estate industry. But much more is involved, including the large number of thousands of Quad-Cityans and millions of Americans. Homes must once again be brought within the financial ability of the traditional homebuying public.

The Senate Finance Committee — Sen. Dan Rostenbourn — estimates that the cost to the Treasury of tax cheating was $76 billion last year, up a whopping $55 billion from 1979.

Imagine what a dent collection of most of those funds would make in the estimated $100 billion deficit that is chilling the nation's recovery from recession.

The senators want to prevent tax revenues from falling through these cracks.

He urged that any short-term assistance for the thrift industry be targeted to those institutions that truly can recover from current financial exigencies and become viable over the long-term.

"Cong. Fernand St. Germain (D, R.I.), chairman of the Banking, Finance and Urban Affairs Committee, wisely has addressed this issue in House Resolution 568," Laguarda said. "It requires that any institution receiving assistance must demonstrate to the Federal Savings and Deposit Insurance Corp. that it has reasonable prospects for long-term viability."

Laguarda is concerned with the housing tie-in as outlined in HR 568 because "this expensive ($7.5 billion) program could result in a low supply of mortgage funds."

"Further, if the thrifits to be assisted under 568 are as sick as they must be to receive help, we question how they can be expected to experience a significant inflow of new deposits."

He urged that any housing tie-in to financial relief for ailing thrifits be clearly defined and that it "assist in the economic recovery of the housing industry." Some of the other points and recommendations Laguarda made to the subcommittee were:

"The Government National Mortgage Association (GNMA) mortgage-backed securities program should not be cut at this time because such an action could seriously jeopardize the future acceptance of conventional pass-through securities. We support Section 507 of HR 873 which sets the GNMA commitment level at $68.25 billion."

"The unsubsidized Federal Housing Administration (FHA) program is actuarially sound. The Association supports the commitment level of $40 billion in fiscal year 1983 as proposed in 973. Rather than providing a subsidy to homebuyers, FHA allows individuals to compete in credit markets against large corporate borrowers."

"New construction of multifamily housing should be linked, whenever possible, to tax law, which now provides significant incentives for investment in low-income housing construction and rehabilitation."

NOW honors 3 with awards

The sixth annual Alice Paul Awards Presentation will take place at 7 p.m. today in the Religious Center at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, under the auspices of the Metro-East Chapter of the National Organization for Women.

Three area residents, considered leaders in the fight for recognition of women's rights in widely different ways, will be honored at tonight's ceremony, according to a NOW spokesman.

The 1981-82 honorees are State Representative Jim McPike, Margarette Bohannon and George H. Humbert Jr.

A reception honoring the award recipients will follow the program. The public is invited to attend the event. Tickets will be available at the door, costing $2.50 for adults and $1 for children.

The award is conferred in memory of Alice Paul, who quit working for women's rights on the day she died July 9, 1977. She wrote the original Equal Rights Amendment which was presented to Congress in 1923.

In addition to the ceremony, also to be featured is a film, "The Winner's," the story of eight women bank employees who successfully waged a two-year struggle for equal pay, the NOW officer said.

Linda Miller, Illinois state president of NOW, will keynote the program.

McPike has been state representative of the 112th District for the past six years. He was raised and educated in Madison County. McPike is a 1965 graduate of the United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., and has served as an officer and jet pilot in the U.S. Navy. He also has a business degree from Jacksonville University in Florida and a masters degree in economics from SIU at Edwardsville.

Rep. McPike has fought for increased benefits for the elderly, championed education as an economic priority, and has spoken out in support of women's rights. In 1981, he was selected as Democratic whip in the Illinois House, the first time in more than a decade that someone from Madison County has served in leadership of the Illinois General Assembly. McPike resides in Alton with his wife and family.

K. Margarette Bohannon has been serving since 1979 as director of the Oasis Women's Center in Alton. She grew up in the Alton area and attended high school there. Mrs. Bohannon has degrees in human services and special education and master's degrees in 1979 and 1980 from the University of Colorado, Boulder. She has been involved in various aspects of social work, including work with the mentally handicapped, services for youth, and student housing — as resident life coordinator and acting director of housing.

The Oasis Women's Center provides help for battered women and their children, including temporary emergency shelter, food and clothing, educational and special needs for children, an emotionally-supportive environment, and through a community referral system — access to all areas where professional assistance is needed.

She also is involved in many other community activities and serves on many boards of directors, including Catholic Children's Home, Rape and Sexual Abuse Care Center, League of Women Voters and the Illinois Women Against Domestic Violence, where she is chairman of the State Services Committee.

George H. Humbert Jr., has been pastor of the College Avenue Presbyterian Church in Alton since January 1978. He has been on the Women's Concerns Committee of that Presbytery for about one

Opposition to insurance tax plan

To the Editor:
The governor in his budget message to the General Assembly has proposed that legislators consider placing a 2 percent premium tax on Illinois-based insurance companies.

Illinois insurance companies are opposed to it for two major reasons:
1. Millions of Illinois insurance policyholders would be forced to pay this tax in addition to the premiums they are already paying.

2. It would create an adverse economic climate for the Illinois insurance industry, which is one of the state's largest employers and a mainstay of our state's economy.

Let me amplify that first point. We say this proposed 2 percent premium tax is essentially a consumer tax because it would be added to the cost of every kind of insurance bought in Illinois—homeowners, auto, renters, life, accident and health, and general liability.

Under the present law, only out-of-state insurance companies—the law calls them "foreign companies"—are required to pay a premium tax. Illinois-based companies—they're called "domestics"—do not.

This differential was created by the legislature to help Illinois-based companies and, in turn, to help the economy of the state. And it has worked very well.

Illinois now is one of the nation's major insurance centers with more property and casualty companies located here—including the two largest—than any state in the country.

That brings me to our second point—that this tax would have a negative effect on the economic climate in Illinois or insurance companies.

We think it ironic that the governor, who has long stressed the necessity of improving our state's economic environment by removing what he calls "disincentives" for business, now should propose a tax that is itself a major economic disincentive.

So, at the very least, we urge our state legislature to consider very carefully the consequences such a tax would have on both the Illinois insurance consumer and the economic well-being of our state.

Appeal made for 2nd lock

A second new lock on the Mississippi River near Alton is "critical to the efficient movement of our nation's agricultural and energy products," according to Guy E. Jester, president of the Association for the Improvement of the Mississippi River (AIMR).

In testimony prepared for delivery in Washington last week before the House Subcommittee on the House Public Works and Transportation Committee, Jester asked that construction of an auxiliary lock be approved.

Legislation providing for a second river lock has been introduced by Cong. Robert A. Young (D-Mo.). A dam and one lock are under construction now two miles downstream from the aging Locks and Dam 26.

A master plan study, mandated by the law authorizing the new lock, the dam, has been conducted by the Upper Mississippi River Basin, Commission and recommends construction of a second lock.

However, a study by the U.S. Department of Transportation from 1968 to 1970, and additional waterway user fees failed to recommend a second lock.

Jester attacked the DOT study as "replete with errors and omissions" and vastly underestimating the amount of user fees that would be necessary to pay for all costs of waterway use.

An attempt to recover 100 percent of all those costs, as the Administration has proposed, could raise transportation costs for grain shippers by 20 to 40 cents a bushel, he said.

It is not surprising that the DOT study failed to find that a second lock was essential, Jester said, "as that agency has consistently sided with railroads fought against Locks and Dam 26 legislation from the beginning."

By authorizing a second lock now, Congress could assure efficient movement of goods and accomplish "millions in cost savings" by integrating plans and designs for the second lock with the project now under way.

Locks and Dam 26 stands at the pivotal center of the entire inland waterways system," he said.

"We cannot afford to have one lock without an auxiliary backup—at such a strategic point in our nation's transportation network."

"If the single lock is damaged for any reason, commerce would be interrupted on the Mississippi, the Illinois, the Ohio, the Missouri and, indeed, throughout the nation."

Jester said passage of Rep. Young's bill "would make it clear that the second lock, like the first lock, is to be built before the matter of user fees is settled."

Salvation Army dinner Thursday

Major Cal Rubin will be guest speaker at the Salvation Army's annual "Civic Dinner," scheduled at 6 p.m. Thursday, March 25.

The event will take place in the Salvation Army Center, 3007 E. 23rd St., according to Captain Donald Salisbury, local commander.

Major Rubin is divisional secretary of the Midland Division, which consists of 25 Corps-Community Centers in Southern Illinois and Missouri.

The guest speaker and his wife, Irene, have served in Minnesota, Illinois and Michigan. They were stationed in Chicago for a total of 17 years, where the couple was instrumental in relocating and building several Corps-Community Centers, Captain Salisbury said.

In 1975, Major Rubin attended the Salvation Army International College for Officers in London, England.

Prior to coming to St. Louis, Major and Mrs. Rubin were assigned to Kalamazoo, Mich., where they were in command of the Corps-Community Centers.

Reservations still will be accepted for Thursday's dinner by calling 451-7697. Tickets cost $5 each, also will be available at the door.

Grassroots regranting program for Arts

The Central Illinois Arts Consortium has announced that it is seeking small, low-budget sponsors of the regranting program.

The CIAC has funds available through its Grassroots Regranting Program, supported with funds by the Illinois Arts Council, a state agency.

Applicants should be non-profit organizations which have been in existence for at least six months. Priority will be given to organizations that are not anticipating similar grants from another source under the Illinois Arts Council Grassroots Regranting Program. (The amount available to various groups is approximately $5,000, and will be regranting on a matching basis.)

Application forms are now available for projects taking place between April 15, 1982 and August 1, 1982. Grant requests will be handled on a first-come, first-served basis. Those interested in applying should contact Gary L. Maxey, Executive Director, Central Illinois Arts Consortium, Sangamon State University, Springfield, IL 62708. Phone (217) 782-2515.

'Missing' said to be alive in Vietnam

To the Editor:

Over nine years have passed since the end of the Vietnam War, and yet 2,494 American servicemen and civilians remain unaccounted for in Indochina.

Many of these men did not just disappear from the face of the earth — some were seen captured, others ejected from aircraft over populous cities.

To date, there has been an accounting for only 78 men in Vietnam's claim of inability to supply information on the missing is dubious, particularly in view of substantiated intelligence information that they are purposely withholding the remains of several hundred Americans.

Even more outrageous is the strong possibility that Vietnam and Laos continue to hold American prisoners. The Defense Intelligence Agency (DIA) is currently investigating over 400 missing men, most of whom are primarily from refugee sources, of men still in captivity.

According to DIA, the "weight of the evidence theory" suggests that Americans may be alive in Communist-controlled Southeast Asia.

Recently, a former DIA director, Lt. General Eugene Tighe, told a Congressional committee looking into the POW-MIA (prisoners of war and missing in action) issue that, in his personal judgment, men are currently in captivity.

In view of the increasingly convincing evidence that Vietnam is withholding POWs—and the substantiated data proving they could account for hundreds of the dead—the National League of Families of American POWs is initiating a "Write Home" campaign.

The thrust of the effort is to show the Vietnamese that the American people will not accept using our servicemen and civilians as pawns in an attempt to force the return of reparations from the U.S.

We urge support for this campaign. Letters can be sent to Vietnam in care of the ambassador to the United Nations, Ha Van Lau, 20 Waterside Plaza, New York, N.Y. 10036.

Ten years ago, such campaigns worked effectively to secure better treatment for American POWs in Hanoi.

Now is the time to bring home the rest of our men, dead or alive.

SANFORD McDONNELL

Achievers here will be honored

Sanford N. McDonnell, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of McDonnell Douglas Corp., has been named chairman of the 1982 Junior Achievement "Future Unlimited" banquet, where Quad-City JA members will be honored.

The announcement was made by Donald O. Schmuck, president of Schnuck Markets, Inc., and chairman of the board of Junior Achievement of the Mississippi Valley.

The banquet will be held on Thursday, April 15, in the grand ballroom of Stouffer's Riverfront Towers. About 2,000 teenage Achievers and business people involved in this metropolitan area's Junior Achievement program are expected to attend the event.

This year-end awards ceremony is held annually to honor student Achievers and business leaders who have helped make the business education program successful. It concludes the JA program year, which runs 25 weeks, from October through early April.

Awards to outstanding JA companies and college scholarships for Achievers are presented at the banquet. This year, 275 teen-agers and college students are competing for top honors.

An estimated 30 JA members will receive scholarships which are available to graduating seniors who have maintained outstanding records as Achievers.

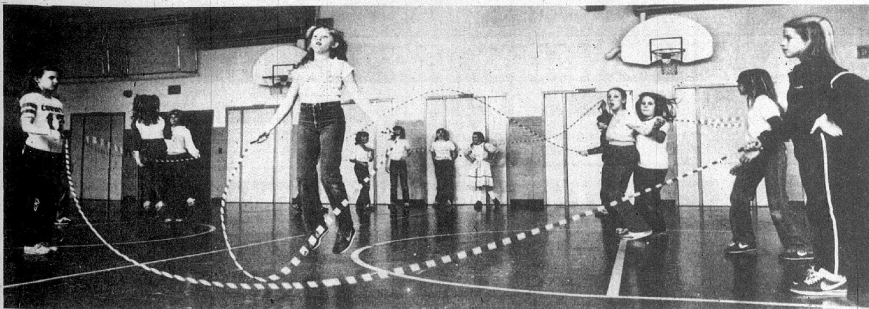

Chairman McDonnell joined McDonnell Douglas in 1948 and became vice-president of project management in 1959. He was elected to the board of directors in 1962, president of McDonnell Douglas Corp. in 1971 and chief executive officer on May 1, 1972.

McDonnell is currently chairman and CEO, having held that position since the fall of 1980.

Junior Achievement of Mississippi Valley has over 8,000 high school students participating in the program this year. Seventeen JA locations are maintained in the metropolitan St. Louis area, including Granite City and Madison-Venice.

Eight smaller communities in Missouri and Arkansas also have JA companies under the jurisdiction of Junior Achievement of Mississippi Valley.

Junior Achievement is a non-profit organization supported solely through contributions from business firms and individuals.

PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT. These Maryville School students are getting ready for the annual Jump Rope for Heart event this week at schools throughout the Quad-City area. The students are now getting pledges from family mem-

GC Council approves first step in A. O. Smith grant

The Granite City Council formally approved the acceptance and allocation of approximately $683,000 Community Development (CD) funds the county has tentatively allocated for the city, including a $243,000 grant for revitalization of the vacant A. O. Smith plant on Missouri Ave.

Expecting $316,000 this 1982-83 budget year, the Granite City Development Board, composed of citizens appointed by the mayor, has based allocations here on a two-year cycle.

Besides the A. O. Smith grant, the council approved: $25,000 for the Granite City downtown redevelopment project; $150,000 for the senior citizen house-painting project; and $183,000 for completion of the North Granite storm water retentions pond project.

However, the Venice City Council has officially called for a federal investigation into the division of the CD funds in District Two, encompassing Quad-City area municipalities.

The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has the final word on fund distribution.

Venice has based its complaint on the fact that funds were divided among the cities based on population, rather than other eligibility criteria, such as economic need.

Mayor Paul Schuler, who is the chairman of CD District Two, said he is aware that Venice is not "perfectly happy" with system, but he feels the matter is not the decision of the Venice council. "If you'll check the law, politicians are not supposed to become directly involved," said the mayor.

According to Schuler, the reason each community unit has its own citizens' board is to avoid political involvement. "Those (CD) resolutions are really only courtesy resolutions," he said, referring to the type of action taken by the Granite City Council Tuesday.

He said, however, that he is sure Madison County, as local administrator of federal CD funds, is upset over the complaint made by the Venice City Council.

"All you can do is sit and wait," said Schuler, when determining what effect, if any, the Venice protest might have on Granite City's CD grant.

The funds are tentatively set to be available Oct. 1, the beginning of the federal budget year.

If you or someone you know may have trouble paying a utility bill, Illinois Power Company can help. We work closely with our customers to arrange reasonable payment plans or direct them to a social agency that may have energy assistance funds available.

This year, the Illinois Home Energy Assistance Program is providing funds to eligible households to pay home energy bills. To apply, you must provide proof of your household's income for the past ninety days, a copy of your current utility bill and the social security number of the head of the household. There is no age limit for applicants, nor is it necessary that your bill be past due. To determine if you qualify for assistance, see the chart.

| Size of Household | Annual income | Past 90 Days income |
|-------------------|---------------|---------------------|
| 1 | $ 5,388.00 | $1,347.00 |
| 2 | 7,133.00 | 1,783.00 |
| 3 | 8,748.00 | 2,187.00 |
| 4 | 10,674.00 | 2,668.00 |
| 5 | 11,826.00 | 2,956.00 |
| 6 | 12,924.00 | 3,231.00 |

Your Illinois Power customer service representative can direct you to the proper agency and provide you with copies of your utility records.

So if you aren't able to pay your full gas or electric bill see us NOW—before your bill becomes past due. We do everything possible to avoid shutting off anyone's service.

Lingering cold could be chronic bronchitis

Spring is nearly here but your winter cold lingers on. You cough. You spit. And if you're a heavy smoker, too, it could be chronic bronchitis.

Chronic bronchitis is nearly always associated with heavy cigarette smoking. It's likely to start in middle age and get worse as the years go on unless you seek help from a doctor early on. About three times as many men get chronic bronchitis as women. Most people with chronic bronchitis live in cities where air pollution is a problem.

The American Lung Association says that because people don't consider chronic bronchitis a serious disease, it is often neglected until it is in an advanced stage and there is serious damage to the lungs. But in 1981, about 7.1 million people suffered from chronic bronchitis.

It brought death to about 3,900. Physicians report more than 330,000 new patients with chronic bronchitis every year. The Social Security Administration grants disability benefits to about 1,500 victims a year. Undoubtedly, chronic bronchitis is one of the nation's costliest diseases in terms of manpower, money and misery.

Since people who get chronic bronchitis are nearly always smoking, the cough is usually dismissed as only "smoker's cough." As time goes on, though, colds become more damaging. Coughing and spitting last longer after each cold. Soon they're with the victim all the time—before colds, during colds, after colds. Generally the cough is worse in the morning and evening and in cold, damp weather. If your winter cold lingers, see your doctor. He or she can help you enjoy the spring.

SIUE eyes giving, housing for campus, classroom utilization

Communication is a key to understanding the mission of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and the challenges facing the university in the current period of economic adjustment, according to Dr. James R. Buck. Director of the university's Office of Development and Public Affairs, he addressed the Alton Public Relations and Advertising Club last week.

Dr. Buck said the general good will within the university and throughout the region, but he warned that "public relations is not a deodorant to be sprayed around. It is a matter of first doing right and then telling about it."

Dr. Buck has responsibility for the SIUE Foundation, University News Services, Cultural Arts and University Museums. University Graphics and Publications, University Information Center, Photographic Services, intercollegiate Athletics and Recreation, Alumni Services, and the new multipurpose building under construction. He is encouraging the use of research to determine more accurate information about the role of the university in the community.

Research conducted in 1977 regarding the image of SIUE in the metropolitan area indicated it ranked second among the four major universities of the region. Dr. Buck said a new study by the Fatus Company reinforced the findings, and the report stated: "One can get a very good education at SIUE."

Surveys are being conducted among alumni and members of the university community to determine ways in which SIUE can be of greater service.

Research also is being used by the American College Testing Corp. in developing a recruitment-retention-marketing program for the local university.

Dr. Buck said private philanthropy will become increasingly important to the quality of the educational program here as the impact of federal and state budget reductions is felt.

He said the financial health of the university is important to this area because the total economic impact of SIUE on the region last year was nearly $200 million.

During this same period, alumni giving for the benefit of the university increased 134 percent and the number of contributors to the annual fund drive conducted by the SIUE Foundation increased by 64 percent.

A survey last year documented that more than 3,000 students would like to have on-campus housing, in addition to those currently served at Tower Lake Apartments, he noted. The SIUE has authorized a professional study to determine the feasibility of providing additional housing, but Dr. Buck said, "The big problem is the current level of interest rates plaguing the construction industry."

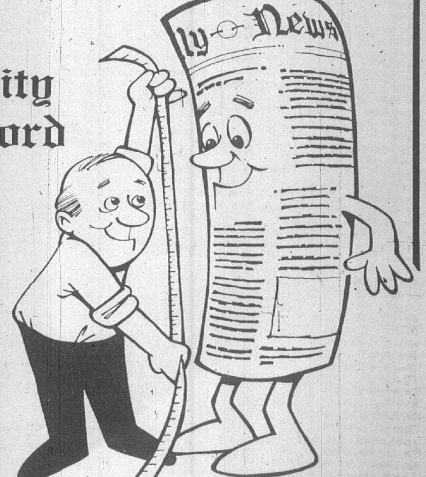

SIUE enrollment is up for the fifth consecutive quarter, and efforts are under way to improve the academic calendar, schedule more evening and weekend classes, expand programs and services at the East St. Louis center, and follow recommendations of a general education task force.

New variety TV show is being filmed here

Recently, he has been with the "KSD Travelin' Road Show," but his career dates back to 1921, when he was 5 years old. Then, he was playing the fiddle and dancing with Mr. Bojangles and Bert Williams in Vaudeville around the country.

Working under contract with Republic Pictures beginning in 1940, Ray appeared with stars like Rex Allen (Sr.), Gene Autry, "Wild Bill" Elliott, Monte Hale, Roy Rogers and others in numerous western movies.

His fiddle playing soon became as popular as his face was familiar. He played with Hank Williams Sr., Jim Reeves, Rex Allen Sr. and others. Later, he began singing and playing in a solo act.

In 1950, he had his first million seller, "Heart of a Clown," followed in 1953 with his second, "The Way Things Might Have Been."

He moved to Nashville, Tenn. and for four years played with Willie Nelson.

In 1976, Ray's career and life almost came to an end. He was told he had cancer and the type he had is fatal in 98 percent of the cases. The other two percent chance turned out to be enough for Ray, who survived major surgery and six months of recuperation. Today, "Every day is a plus to an already full life," according to Ray.

He moved to Sparta and enjoyed semi-retirement, until 1981, when an invitation to play with the Travelin' Road Show turned out to be too inviting to turn down. The invitation came from the band's leader, Jimmy Queen, son of a long-time friend of Ray's, Roy Queen. He also has completed a new record album.

Now back to glowing health and full of energy, Ray feels ready to tackle his own television show and the popularity that, hopefully, will bring. Walt Bowen, the producer of "Pappy's Place," is predicting full acceptance of the show, because Wade's honesty, sincerity and acting and Eating "hot" chili peppers can make one sweat.

So, "hot" fruits and vegetables contain chemical or biological compounds that may cause discomfort to a sensitive digestion.

Not only does culture determine what individual foods we should eat, but it also determines what combinations of foods make up a meal and what is appropriate for supper or lunch.

WHAT MAKES A MEAL? An outsider might define the American cuisine as meat, potatoes and a vegetable for the main meal, with juice, eggs, and cereal for breakfast, and a hamburger or sandwich and milk shake for lunch.

Obviously, this is an oversimplification, and there are regional variations as well: breakfast in the Southeast traditionally included grits; in the North, fried potatoes.

But not many of us eat "breakfast" cereal for dinner or salad for breakfast.

Such prescribed combinations of food may well be based on real nutritional values that, by virtue of experience, have become integrated into the culture.

Our food has many meanings

(This is the first of 15 articles exploring "Food and People." In this article, Christine S. Wilson, a nutritional anthropologist at the University of California, San Francisco, discusses the cultural and psychological meanings of food. Copyright (c) 1982 by the Regents of the University of California.)

By CHRISTINE WILSON

For all humans, food is, of course, a necessity for survival — the source of nutrients to meet our physical needs.

But food also has important psychological and social meanings. In primitive cultures, the entire society may have been organized around tasks of obtaining and preparing food.

The mystical and symbolic meanings of food are reflected in every language and have been found in every region since earliest times. It endowed his staple food with supernatural powers that inspired reverence and rites of worship.

There has been a transformation of food into eater-inspired ideas, still held by many rural Asians. They consider rice and man to be the same thing, and the rice to contain a soul.

Even in modern societies, food remains a symbol of security and identity and the focus for initiating and maintaining social relationships.

The family meal, though diminished in importance, is still a primary occasion for transmitting culture from one generation to another.

CULTURE DEFINES FOOD.

This food is a central element of every culture. Indeed, it is culture that determines what we regard as suitable food to nourish us.

The body is not particular about how it gets its necessary sugars, fats and amino acids, but the mind is. Few populations eat all potential edibles in their environment. Instead, they eat what has been defined for them as food by the culture to which they belong.

For example, snails, eels, insects and blood, which are not common fare in America, although all provide good animal protein and are highly prized as foods by other societies.

On the other hand, the majority of Americans have no taboos against beef (as do Hindus) or against pork (as do Moslems).

The material culture — the tools and equipment available to prepare food — may affect what we eat. Chinese food, for instance, is cut fine and stir-fried quickly over high heat to maximize use of limited cooking fuel.

But local or economic availability has less effect on what people eat than what opposites, Yin versus Yang, incorporates similar attitudes. Our own language echoes these beliefs in such phrases as "cold as a cucumber" and "in good humor."

Some, beliefs about the properties of food have basis in fact. Certain foods that are high in protein "stay" you because protein is more slowly digested than carbohydrates.

Eating "hot" chili peppers can make one sweat.

So, "hot" fruits and vegetables contain chemical or biological compounds that may cause discomfort to a sensitive digestion.

Not only does culture determine what individual foods we should eat, but it also determines what combinations of foods make up a meal and what is appropriate for supper or lunch.

WHAT MAKES A MEAL? An outsider might define the American cuisine as meat, potatoes and a vegetable for the main meal, with juice, eggs, and cereal for breakfast, and a hamburger or sandwich and milk shake for lunch.

Obviously, this is an oversimplification, and there are regional variations as well: breakfast in the Southeast traditionally included grits; in the North, fried potatoes.

But not many of us eat "breakfast" cereal for dinner or salad for breakfast.

Such prescribed combinations of food may well be based on real nutritional values that, by virtue of experience, have become integrated into the culture.

The staple and its accompaniments often provide complementary amino acids, with one providing what the other lacks, making the resulting mixture a complete protein.

Bread and cheese, lox and bagels, or tortillas and beans are examples.

So strong are these traditions among many ethnic groups that if part of a meal is unavailable, the rest may not be eaten because what is left is no longer considered a "meal."

For example, the Irish potato famine of the 19th Century had such disastrous consequences partly because many Irish would not eat fish — which was available — without the potatoes to go with it.

Conversely, between-meal snacks may not be considered "food." Nevertheless, they contribute calories and sometimes other nutrients, too.

EMOTIONAL AND SOCIAL MEANINGS.

Observing such cultural beliefs about the properties of food gives people feelings of belonging and security.

Indeed, food acquires emotional attributes for an individual in earliest life, when the infant equates food with the giver as an expression of love.

If food is withheld, or something less liked is substituted, the child reacts as though affection were withdrawn.

Thus food becomes a symbol of security. For some it substitutes for love, producing compulsive eating or obesity.

For most, however, of fering and accepting food is an expression of friendship and love. Food reinforces a sense of belonging and provides assurances about our place in society.

Eating together is an expression of solidarity; we seldom break bread with our enemies.

Families eat together less often in our society today than they did formerly. However, we still celebrate important occasions, from holidays to weddings, with food; the serving of food often makes an occasion social.

Food serves to establish or renew social ties; we gather to chat over a cup of coffee or cocktails.

Indeed, we attach different social significances to a sandwich lunch as opposed to an elegant sit-down dinner.

At such private meals, some people may use food as others use automobiles: to show rank or status.

Even nursery school children value foods for social exchange, and rank them according to their exchange value.

What is scarce and expensive is more desirable than what is plentiful and cheap.

Perhaps this is why children almost everywhere seem to dislike vegetables, which have been held in low esteem since Biblical times.

In general, new foods are more readily accepted if they are introduced into meals with less emotional significance, such as breakfast or lunch, rather than dinner, which has a more central role in our culture.

For the most part, people like what they are used to eating.

Tastes may, of course, be acquired; many of us enjoy the various ethnic restaurants to be found in this nation of immigrants.

But generally, tastes and customs are intertwined. Custom forms habit; and so our eating patterns become a central part of our lives.

Ratings don't rate with Stack

By ALAN L. GANSBERG
HOLLYWOOD — It took a lot to lure ROBERT STACK back to a TV series, but "Strike Force" was such a vehicle, and now Stack would like to see the series develop into something special.

"We did a show that I think explains the direction I want to see the series take," he said. "The episode was called 'Turnabout.' In it we explored the character of Murphy, which I play.

"It's not just the human side of cops," he continued. "It's not just a cop picking a cat out of a tree.

"It's more like Joseph Wambaugh. Let's see why the marriage doesn't work. Why cops are gods on the job, but their wives have an entirely different view of them."

Stack is one actor who says the ratings do not interest him, nor does he care whether the series comes back for another season, although if ABC wants it, he'll be there.

He insists, "I want to do something interesting, something with a heart line. I want Murphy to become more like an everyman cop."

Stack's philosophy of doing the task to do it well carries over in his work as an Olympian shooting team adviser.

"Doing it because you want to do it good is where the fun is," he remarked.

Shooting is a longtime passion, separate from the fact that he has played famous lawmen such as Elliott Ness on "The Untouchables." At 16, he was a member of the All-American skeet shooting team, as well as national champion and the holder of two world records. He's now in the National Skeet Shooting Hall of Fame.

"I like enthusiasm," Stack added. "I never wanted to do another cop show, but the writers of 'Strike Force' had a boy scout master's enthusiasm and they won me over. I have to keep that same passion for my character, and I want the audience to see it too."

BURT REYNOLDS is also looking for new challenges. Burt is reportedly deciding whether or not to become chairman of Comworld Productions, a company that used to be in partnership with the OS-MOND family for TV fare.

Burt has said for a long time that when his acting days are over, he'd like to direct and he has been building a production center in Georgia.

Life building is on SUSAN BLAKELEY'S mind. She's expected to wed producer-manager STEVE JAFFE this April. She'll next be seen on TV playing actress FRANCES FARMER in a movie about the late actress' tragic life.

BARBARA FELDON and BETSY PALMER are just two of the personalities who have been signed to host series on DAY-TIME, a cable service geared toward meeting the needs of the women of the 1980s.

Palmer is hosting a show called "Wifeline," which will investigate the joys and sorrows of married life.

Feldon is overseeing "The '80s Woman," a daily look at the issues involving females.

JULIA CHILD and PHYLLIS DILLER will also be on the air on DAY-TIME.

The big "Love Boat" cruise for next season will be to the Greek Isles, where a special two-hour episode will be filmed.

Stars are asking their agents to get them aboard and so far HARVEY KORMAN has been successful. As many as a dozen or more notables may be as lucky.

BARBARA STANWYCK, who has never won an Academy Award, is this year's choice for a special one when the event is telecast March 29.

Although the cast members of CBS' "One Day at a Time" have been hinting they may not agree to come back with the series next season, don't fret.

Word from a spokesperson at Embassy TV — the producers — is that VALERIE BERTINELLI and PAT HARRINGTON JR. will definitely return and BONNIE FRANKLIN is negotiating right now.

Stewart makes registers ring

By ROBIN WELLES
HOLLYWOOD — According to the cold-eyed people who count the cash, Rod Stewart is the man to invite to your arena.

The frenetic Stewart, who hovered around the fringes of rock stardom for years before his act caught fire, attracted a capacity crowd of 17,000 into the Summit in Houston last Jan. 18 (tickets were sealed from 13.65 to 11.65).

The cash-counters were thrilled to be able to run their hands through $205,829 from that performance.

A few days earlier Stewart had lassoed $191,698 from a near-capacity 15,976 fans at the Reunion Arena in Dallas.

Which shows you how big business can be in the musical big time. Projected over a year Stewart would be grossing from $10 million to $15 million a year at that rate. And THEN you add his record income to that and you have very big bucks.

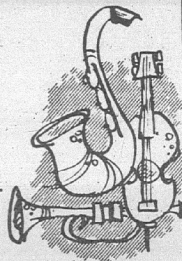

But all is not peaches and cream out on the rock circuit. Take the Henry Paul Band and B'zz. These acts only attracted 1,090 fans to the Perkins Palace (capacity 1,800) in Pasadena, Calif., last Jan. 17. So, while Stewart was shoveling all that cash down in Texas, Henry Paul Band and B'zz had to settle for a paltry $3,175 for the evening's efforts. Hardly enough to cover the laundry and dry cleaning these days.

But look what happened to Jr. Walker & the All-Stars at the Euphoria in Portland, Ore., last Jan. 7. This act snagged only 591 brave souls into the 1,000-capacity theater. And they contributed a chintzy total of $3,546 to the enrichment of Jr. and the boys.

Trash collectors (sorry, sanitation engineers) make much more than that in San Francisco.

MICHAEL FRANKS — Objects of Desire (Warner Bros.) — Singer-composer Franks blends his basic rhythm and blues with commercial pop-rock and the pleasing combination should add members to his fan clubs. The LP is beautifully produced and arranged — taking full advantage of the large number of musicians involved. One of the highlights is a duet with Bonnie Raitt.

World Of Music

IRENE CARA — Anyone Can See (Network-Elektra) — Cara is a bright new star. Only 22, she first caught public attention with great versions of two of the songs ("Fame" and "Out Here on My Own") from the movie "Fame" in 1980. A singer, dancer and composer (she wrote five of the songs on this LP), she's been in show business for 15 years. This is her first album — and won't be last.

ECHOES OF AN ERA (Elektra-Asylum) — What a lineup: vocalist Chaka Khan, Freddie Hubbard on flugelhorn and trumpet, Joe Henderson on tenor sax, Chick Corea on piano, Stanley Clarke on acoustic bass and Lenny White on drums. And they're playing songs like "Them There Eyes," "All of Me," and "Take the A Train." All you have to do is sit back, listen and enjoy.

THE FRENCH LIEUTENANT'S WOMAN — Movie Soundtrack (DRG Records) — Carl Davis composed and conducted the music for the romantic tale of two lovers. Pianist John Lill's interpretation of an adagio from a Mozart sonata blends perfectly with the rest of the Davis score. Some of the most creative composing in the nation has been done for movie soundtracks.

HOLLYWOOD HEADLINERS

By NANCY ANDERSON
FRANKLIN COVER who was seen in "THE DAY THE BUBBLE BURST," an NBC show about the 1929 market crash, was only a year old when the Great Depression began, but he claims he can remember it.

"I was born with a silver spoon in my mouth," he says, "and can remember when they took it out and replaced it with pewter."

GREGORY HARRISON suffered a broken leg during a ski junket, but he didn't get it on the slopes.

After a weekend of happy skiing, he was packing his car for a trip back to Los Angeles, slipped on a step and fractured a bone in his lower leg.

"TRAPPER JOHN" scripts are being written to allow for his limp.

Glamorous EVA GABOR claims that she never diets nor worries about growing older.

"I don't have time to get old or to get fat," she says. And that's a fact.

Eva not only works as an actress in theater and on screen, but has her thriving wig business which she personally supervises.

Analyzing his acting technique, ALBERT FINNEY, currently seen in "SHOOT THE MOON," says, "I go to the vault in the memory bank and open some of the deposit boxes and use some of that feeling in playing scenes."

"It's quite interesting what the memory is capable of. Being a computer, it stores feelings like it stores smells and emotions and experiences of emotions."

"When you open a box with a painful memory stored inside, you know intellectually that you are only going to borrow that feeling but our emotional structure doesn't. For a while, that painful feeling is set loose within you."

"... Feelings take time to filter out."

KAREN ALLEN, the girl in "RAIDERS OF THE LOST ARK" and a star of "SHOOT THE MOON," confesses that for a while she almost gave up movie work.

"I went through a period of a few months," she says, "wondering if the past couple of years had been just one big lesson to learn ... that maybe film work really wasn't for me."

"I felt that I didn't want to do a film for a long, long time."

"But then when 'Shoot the Moon' came up, I loved the script. I loved the character ..."

Dom Perignon, flowed like tap water during parties attending the MANILA INTERNATIONAL FILM FESTIVAL but other stylish elements were also present.

The clothes, for example:

For a cocktail party at the American Embassy, MRS. MARCOS, first lady of the Philippines, wore tapered evening trousers beneath an embroidered scarlet tunic.

PRISCILLA PRESLEY wore basic black, beautifully and simply cut with a silver heart at her throat.

ANN HAMILTON, mother of GEORGE, was an eye-catcher because she was the only person present wearing a hat. Her wide-brimmed, felt cartwheel was a light cocoa-brown to match her two piece dress.

For the film festival awards ceremony, SUSAN GEORGE wore a beaded, violet costume with a diaphanous cape.

And, during the evening, Mrs. Marcos wore two gowns, one for the awards ceremony and another for dinner. The second was of a style indigenous to the Philippines fashioned with high-puffed sleeves.

MICKEY ROONEY and MARTHA RAYE, a real pair of pros, hope to hit Broadway as Maggie and Jiggs.

During one of the dance sequences in "CANNERY ROW," DEBRA WINGER accidentally kicked NICK NOLTE in the head and almost knocked him unconscious.

Despite it all, she still loves to dance.

Don't know about Nolte.

Sassy Geraldine, the FLIP WILSON creation, is the daughter of CLARA BARTON, founder of the American Red Cross, roughly speaking.

Flip tells that, as a kid, he was "scripted as a last-minute replacement for a drop-out from a school play and thrust on stage in a patriotic pageant as Clara Barton."

The audience howled and Geraldine eventually was born.

Ruins found uncovered

The remains of the oldest Jewish academy in France, an 11th-century edifice, were uncovered recently in Rouen.

WAL-MART WON'T BE UNDERSOLD BY ANYONE!
Wal-Mart will meet or beat any local competitor's current advertised sale price on any item. Just bring their ad in with you. Other stores brag about their low, discount prices, but only at Wal-Mart can you find lower prices throughout the store. Don't take our word for it! Come in and discover for yourself. Wal-Mart really does discount other items, in every department, every single day!
